STEUART.

Seton-Steuart, Sir Henry-James, of Allanton, co. Lanark; b. in 1812; s. his father as 3rd baronet, in 1838; m. Dec. 1852, Elizabeth, elder daughter of Robert Montgomery, Esq., younger brother of Sir James Montgomery, Bart. of Stanhope. Sir Henry is hereditary Armour-Bearer and Squire of the Royal Body in Scotland to the Queen.

Lineage.

The ancient family of Steuart of Allanton, co. Lanark, is the chief of one of the most extensive branches of the house of Bonkill, lineally descended from SIR ROBERT STEUART, of Daldowie, 6th son of Sir John Steuart, of Bonkle, or Bonkill, son to Alexander, 6th lord-high-steward of Scotland, great-grandfather of King ROBERT II., the 1st prince of the Stuart line. About the year 1290, Sir John bestowed the estate of Daldowie, on the river Clyde, part of his extensive possessions in the co. of Lanark and the co. of Renfrew, in patrimony on his son, Sir Robert. He was killed at the battle of Falkirk, in 1298; and SIR ROBERT, who fought at Bannockburn with the lord-high-steward, under ROBERT BRUCE, in the following year, together with three of his brothers, Sir Allan, Sir Walter, and Sir Hugh, accompanied Edward Bruce in the expedition to Ireland, in 1315, and participated in the battle of Dundalk, in 1318, when that gallant and enterprising prince terminated his career. From Sir Robert descended,

JAMES STEUART (10th Baron of Allanton, and 13th in descent from the lord-high-steward of Scotland), b. in 1715; who m. in 1754, his cousin, Margaret, dau. of Henry Steuart Barclay, Esq. of Collernie, co. Fife, younger brother to Sir James Steuart, Bart. of Goodtrees, M.P. for Mid-Lothian in the 1st parliament after the Union, afterwards solicitor-general in the reign of GEORGE II., and had a son and heir,

SIR HENRY STEUART, LL.D., F.R.S., and A.S.E., (14th in descent from the 6th lord-high-steward of Scotland), b. 20 Oct. 1759.

The offer of a Nova Scotia Baronetcy was made in 1687, by King JAMES II., to William, eldest son of Sir Walter Steuart, Baron of Allanton, which he declined, from the chivalrous feeling of that period, that the title of a knight banneret conferred by the hands of royalty on the field of battle, which so many of his ancestors had so gloriously acquired, was a distinction far more honourable. Upon his refusal it was given to his cousin, one of the cadets of his family, Robert Steuart of Allanbank.

Sir Henry was himself created a Baronet, with remainder to his son in-law, Reginald Macdonald, Esq. of Staffa. Sir Henry is well known to have been an elegant scholar and an accomplished gentleman, and his skill and success as an arboriculturist rendered him famous as the founder of the art of transplanting large trees. He m. in 1787, Lillias, dau. of Hugh Seton, Esq. of Touch-Seton, co. Stirling, and had issue, Elizabeth Seton, who d. in infancy, and ELIZABETH-MARGARET, b. 31 Oct. 1790, his sole heiress, m. in Jan. 1812, REGINALD MACDONALD, Esq. of Staffa, and by him who s. his father-in-law as 2nd bart., and d. 1838, she had,

I. HENRY-JAMES, present baronet.
II. Archibald, b. 1814; m. 1855, Katherine, dau. of Robert Stein, Esq., and d. 21 Oct 1872, leaving by her (who also d. 1872), two sons, ALAN-HENRY, b. 1856, and Douglas-Archibald, b. 1857.
III. Collin-Reginald, who was drowned.
I. Isabella, m. 1852, Rev. John Lockhart Ross, rector of St. Dunstan-in-the-East, London.
II. Lillias-Margaret, d. 5 July, 1866.

The heiress of Steuart added, in 1835, the surname of SETON to her own, upon succeeding, as sole heiress in right of her mother, Lillias, to the estate of Touch Seton, co. Stirling, the property of her maternal uncle, the Hon. Archibald Seton, late member of the Supreme Council, Bengal, and governor of Prince of Wales's Island. She at the same time succeeded to the office of heritable armour-bearer to the queen, and squire of the royal body, which high hereditary office she held, and which has been for time immemorial in the family of SETON of Touch, for which various charters are extant, at and previous to 1488, granted by JAMES III. and CHARLES II. The heiress of Steuart d. 2 Aug. 1866, and her heir and the heir of her honors, is the present SIR HENRY-JAMES SETON-STEUART, Bart.

Seton of Touch.

The SETONS are a very ancient race, and trace their origin to Dougal Seton, who lived in the reign of ALEXANDER I. of Scotland, son of MALCOLM CANMORE, 1109. This family were distinguished in Scottish history, and performed many loyal and gallant achievements during the wars with England and the various civil conflicts in Scotland. Dougal's descendant, William, was created Baron Seton de Gordon, in the reign of King ROBERT III.; from whom descended, Alexander, who was created, in 1449, Marquess of Huntly. He m. 1st, Giles Hay, heiress of Enzie, by whom he had one son, ALEXANDER; and 2ndly, Elizabeth, dau. of Charles Crichton, by whom he had George, 2nd Earl of Huntly, from whom descended the Dukes of Gordon, Earls of Aboyne, Sutherland, &c. &c. From the only son of his 1st marriage, ALEXANDER, the SETONS of Touch lineally descend; and Archibald, the late proprietor, was the 9th in descent from Alexander, the 1st Earl of Huntly. He was s. by his sister, Barbara, who dying without children, the property devolved upon Lady Seton Steuart, his niece.

The Setons of Touch lay claim to the title of BARON SETON DE GORDON in right of their ancestor, Alexander.

He was subsequently called to the bar in Jan. 1866, and was M.P. for Montgomery from 1863 until his succession to the Peerage.

Lineage.

The ancient family of Tracy boast of descent from Saxon ancestors.

JOHN DE SUDELEY, Lord of Sudeley and Toddington, A.D. 1140, m. Grace, dau. and heir of Henry de Traci, feudal lord of Barnstaple, and had issue,

RALPH DE SUDELEY, founder of the priory of Erdburie.
WILLIAM, who adopted his mother's name of DE TRACI.

The younger son,

WILLIAM, assumed his mother's name of DE TRACI, lived in the reign of HENRY II., and held lands of his brother,

Ralph de Sudeley, by one knight's fee, which was probably the manor of Toddington, for it appears by Domesday Book, that it was held by the Lord Sudeley, of the manor of Sudeley; and in the reign of EDWARD I. the Tracys are expressly said to be possessed of it; and this William, in a deed of Otwell, Lord of Sudeley, son and heir of the said Ralph, is called his uncle; this is (almost beyond doubt) the same Sir William Tracy, who was concerned in the assassination of Thomas à Becket. Fuller, in his Worthies, naming the assassin as Sir William Tracy, of Toddington, describes him as "a man of high birth, state, and stomach, a favourite of the king's, and his daily attendant." In the 19th HENRY II. he was created Steward of Normandy, which he held only two years; and he is again mentioned 2 JOHN. During the troublous reign of that monarch, William de Traci appeared in arms with the other barons, and had his lands confiscated; but they were restored to him 2 HENRY III., as is shown by a Roll, dated at Westminster 18 Nov. in that year. He also founded and endowed a chapel to Thomas à Becket, in the conventual church at Tewkesbury. He d. circa 1224. By Hawise De Born, his wife (who m. 2ndly, Hugh Fitzwilliam, Lord of Hatton, co. Warwick), he left, with two daus. (the elder m. to Sir Gervase Courtenay, and the younger to William de Arden), a son and successor,

HENRY DE TRACY, of Toddington, co. Gloucester, who d. about the year 1246, leaving a dau., Margery, wife of Maurice de Stanlinch, and two sons, HENRY his heir, and Thomas, who became, "jure uxoris Isoldæ de Cardinan," of Restormel Castle, Cornwall. Henry de Tracy's eldest son,

HENRY DE TRACY, of Toddington, appears in a charter, 26 July, 1260, and was summoned to perform military service at Carmarthen, 11 EDWARD I. He d. circa 1296, and was s. by his son,

SIR WILLIAM TRACY, of Toddington, who is recorded among the knights of the same county, in the 17th EDWARD I., and with Ralph de Sudeley, his kinsman, is stated to have had a command in the Scottish war. He left a son and heir,

SIR WILLIAM TRACY, of Toddington, who was in ward to Laurence Tresham, 27 EDWARD I., at which time he is certified to hold £40 in lands. In the beginning of the reign of EDWARD II. he was at the tournament at Dunstable, as appears by an old drawing of a knight in armour, bearing a standard with the arms of the family. In the 17th of EDWARD II. he was, jointly with John Bermansel, high-sheriff of Gloucestershire, which office in those times, was of great authority. In a roll of the nobles of England, dated 30 June, 1315, at Berwick, appear the names of this William Tracy, William de Sudeley, William le Boteler of Wemm, &c. Sir William left a dau. Margery, wife of John Archer, of Umberslade, and a son and heir,

WILLIAM TRACY, Esq. of Toddington, to whom, in conjunction with Thomas Berkeley, of Coberle, a mandate was issued, 7 EDWARD III., to raise three hundred men from the forest of Dene, and two hundred men in the county of Gloucester. His son and heir,

SIR JOHN TRACY, of Toddington, knight of the shire for Gloucestershire, 32 EDWARD III., and sheriff for five years in succession, commencing in 1358, d. in 1363, leaving, with a dau. Margaret, wife of Sir Thomas de Langley, Knt., two sons, of whom the elder,

SIR JOHN TRACY, of Toddington, M.P., and sheriff for Gloucestershire; d. in 1379, leaving a dau. Margaret, wife of Robert FitzElys, and a son and successor,

WILLIAM TRACY, Esq. of Toddington, high-sheriff in 1395; who d. in 1399. His son and heir,

WILLIAM TRACY, Esq. of Toddington, was called to the privy council of HENRY VI., as appears by a private letter, still extant, written by the king in most flattering terms, and dated 21 July, 1401, "from my manor of Sutton." He was high-sheriff 5 HENRY V., and "one of those persons of quality in the county of Gloucester, who, bearing ancient arms from his ancestors, and holding by tenure, had summons in the 7th HENRY V. to serve the king in person for defence of the realm." William Tracy, the privy councillor, m. Alice, eldest dau. and co-heir of Sir Guy de la Spine, Knt., Lord of Coughton, co. Warwick, and widow of William Gifford (which Sir Guy de la Spine was great-grandson of William de la Spine, by Joan his wife, dau. and heir of Sir Simonde Cocton, Knt.), and had issue, WILLIAM, his heir; John; and Alice, m. to Hugh Culme, Esq., of Moland, Devon. The elder son,

WILLIAM TRACY, Esq. of Toddington, sheriff of Gloucestershire, 22 and 23 HENRY VI., who m. Margery, dau. of Sir John Pauncefort, Knt.; and d. in 1460, leaving a dau. Margery, wife of Thomas Mylle, Esq. of Horscombe, co. Salop, and two sons, HENRY and Richard: the elder,

Oxon; and d. about 1506, leaving issue two daus., Anne, m. 1st, to William Wye; and 2ndly, to Thomas Mannington; Elizabeth, m. 1st, to — Langley; and 2ndly, to Sir Alexander Baynham; and three sons, viz., WILLIAM, his heir; Richard, who m. and had issue; and Ralph, a monk. The eldest son,

SIR WILLIAM TRACY, of Toddington, was sheriff of Gloucestershire, in the 5th HENRY VIII. anno 1513. He was a gentleman of excellent parts and sound learning, and is memorable for being one of the first who embraced the reformed religion in England, as appears by his last will, dated 22 HENRY VIII., which was condemned in the Bishop of London's Court, after his decease, and an order sent to Parker, chancellor of Worcester, to raise his body; but he too officiously burning the corpse, the recorder only warranting him to raise the body according to the law of the church, he was afterwards fined £400, and turned out of the chancellorship. Sir William's famous will is a curious document—most characteristic of the times. Sir William m. Margaret, dau. of Sir Thomas Throckmorton, of Corse Court, in Gloucestershire, and had issue,

I. WILLIAM, his heir.

II. RICHARD, who obtained from his father the manor of Stanway, in the co. of Gloucester, part of the lands of the abbey of Tewksbury, which came to him by grant from the crown. "This Richard," says an old writer, "was well educated, and wrote learnedly of his father's faith several treatises in the English tongue, and that most remarkable one, entitled Preparations for the Cross, written experimentally, having suffered much in his estate for his father's reputed heretical will: he also wrote prophetically, anno 1550, (few years before the beginning of Queen MARY) another treatise, To Teach One to Die, which is annexed to his Preparations to the Cross, which was reprinted, and falsely ascribed by the editor to be composed by John Frith, being one of the three that was found in the belly of a cod brought into the market to be sold at Cambridge, A.D. 1626, wrapped about with canvas, very probably what that voracious fish plundered out of the pocket of some shipwrecked seaman." In the 2nd of ELIZABETH, he was sheriff of Gloucestershire, and having m. Barbara, dau. of Thomas Lucy, Esq. of Charlecote, had with three daus., three sons, PAUL, Nathaniel; and Samuel. He was s. by the eldest,

RICHARD (Sir), the eldest, s. his father.

Anne, m. to Edward Hall, Esq. of the co. of Worcester.

Alice.

Hesther, m. to Francis, eldest son of John Kyrle, Esq. of Much Marcle, in Herefordshire.

Lineage.

All our Antiquaries coincide in attaching a long and distinguished line of ancestors to this family, and in giving it an Anglo-Saxon origin; but they differ as to the identity of its founder, some alleging him to have been Sir Alan Gower, Lord of Stittenham, in Yorkshire, said to have been sheriff of the county temp. WILLIAM I.; whilst others name William Fitz-Guyer, of Stittenham, who was charged with a mark for his lands in the Sheriff's accounts, anno 1167, Brydges's Collins, vol. II., p. 441). In more than a hundred years afterwards (towards the close of the 13th century), we find

SIR JOHN GOWER, one of the persons of note summoned to be at Carlisle, with horse and arms, on the Feast of the Nativity of St. John the Baptist to march against the Scots; and again, in the following year, the same personage is summoned for a like purpose, to proceed to Berwick. After Sir John comes

LAWRENCE GOWER, who obtained the king's pardon in the 7th EDWARD II. for having been concerned with the Earl of Lancaster in the murder of Piers Gaveston at Blacklow Hill, 19 June, 1312. This Lawrence was s. by

Rome, with six valets and seven horses in his retinue; and in 1351, he was commissioned to investigate some outrage committed upon Hugh, Archbishop of Damascus, at Newstead, near Boland. His son,

Lineage.

This very ancient family derives its surname from Swinburne Castle, in Northumberland, which it possessed from so remote a period, that (although Sir William Dugdale notes them not as such) the Swinburnes of Swinburne Castle have been esteemed feudal lords.

Sir Adam de Swinburne, representative of the family temp. Edward II., left a son, Adam de Swinborne, of Swinborne, who d. s. p., and three daus., viz.,

Christian, m. to John de Widdrington, and thus Swinburne Castle, the old seat of the Swinburnes, passed to the Widdringtons, from whom it was purchased in 1695, by T. Riddell, Esq. of Fenham, and is now the property of that gentleman's descendant, the present Thomas Riddell, Esq. of Felton Park and Swinburne Castle.
Barbara, m. to John de Strivelyn, of Built Castle, Cumberland.
Elizabeth, m. to Walter Heron, of Haddiston.

The family immediately before us, which springs from a common progenitor with the Swinburnes of Swinburne Castle, and has preserved a male succession, derives directly from

Sir William de Swinborne, living temp. Henry III., who obtained by grant from Gilbert de Umfravile, Earl of Angus, the lordship of Chollerton, in Northumberland. He was lineal ancestor of

Thomas Swinburne, Esq. of Capheaton,* co. Northumberland, who m. in 1572, Margaret, dau. of Lawson of Little Usworth, in the co. palatine of Durham: his great grandson, Durham), who was created a Bart. 26 Sept. 1660, and is called in the patent, "Virum, patrimonio censu et morum probitate, spectabilem." Sir John m. Isabel, only dau. and sole heiress of Henry Lawson, Esq. of Brough, co. York, by Catherine, only dau. and heiress of Sir William Fenwick, Knt. of Meldon, co. Northumberland, and had issue, Troath, m. to William Dacre, Esq. of Leonard Coast Abbey, co. Cumberland.

Sir John was s. at his decease, 19 June, 1706, by his son,

John, his successor.
Matthew, b. in 1700; m. in 1738, Eleanora, dau. and heiress of William Thirlwall, Esq. of Thirlwall Castle, co. Northumberland; but d. s. p.
Thomas, who m. Mary, dau. and co-heiress of Anthony Meaburne, Esq. of Pontop Hall, co. Durham, and widow of Thomas Thornton, Esq.; and d. 1 Feb. 1772, leaving a dau., Mary, who d. s. p., and a son, Thomas, who m. in 1781, Charlotte, dau. and co-heir of Robert Spearman, Esq. of Old Acres, Durham, and had issue, Thomas-Robert, of Pontop Hall, co. Durham, and Marcus, Forfarshire (his successor 1825); b. in 1794, maj.-gen. in the army; served in the guards in Holland and South of France; in the campaign of 1815, at Quatre Bras, and Waterloo; m. 1st, Dec. 1818, Maria, 3rd dau. of the Rev. Anthony Coates, and by her (who d. in July, 1820) had a son, Thomas-Anthony, now of Pontop Hall, and of Eilan Shona, Inverness-shire, capt. (ret.) Caroline-Eva-Henrietta.

Lineage.

THE name of Sykes, is derived from the Anglo-Saxon sich, interpreted by Somner as sulcus aquarius, a water-course, or water-furrow. Northern topography abounds with the word syke, which is usually applied to a small running stream, or rivulet. The arms in use from a remote period, are derived from the same source, being:—"Argent, a chev. sa., between three heraldic fountains, or sykes."

Thoresby says, the Sykeses of Leeds "sprung from these of the name at Sykes' Dyke, near Carlisle (whose servants wore the Branded Bull* as their badge)."

Extant documents, in Latin and in English, prove that some of them were located at Flockton, in the parish of Thornhill, near Leeds, about the year 1200, when Agnes del Sicke acquired lands at "Floketon," adjoining those previously held by William del Sicke: that in 1345 (18 Edw. III.) John del Syk, of "Fflokton," conveyed ancestral lands, there, to his son, Michael; that in 1550, (4 Edw. VI.) John Sykys conveyed tenements and land in Flockton; with remainder to his eldest son, Charles, and second son, William; that in 1577, (19 Eliz.) Charles Sykys, whose wife's name was Christian, sold certain pastures in Nether Flockton: and that some of the descendants of William Sykys, who settled at Leeds as a clothier, held for a considerable period, lands at Flockton.

In 1576 (18 ELIZ.), the wills of Richard and William Sykes, of the Kirkgate in Leeds, clothiers, name William, their father, as surviving: they also mention their brothers, James and Edmund, as living at Leeds. Richard, who was the third son, left (with other issue) a son, Richard, who was among the earlier Mayors of Leeds, and founded the great mercantile family of his name. In 1581, (23 Eliz.) George Sykes, of Vicar Lane and the Kirkgate, (born before the commencement of the parish registers) married Elizabeth Hodgson; and their youngest son, George, baptized in 1588, became ancestor of the family of Sykes of Dryglington, near Leeds.

WILLIAM SYKES, Esq. of Kirkheaton, co. York, said to have descended from the Sykes, of Sykes Dyke and of Leeds, was father of

FRANCIS SYKES, Esq. of Thornhill, co. York, who m. 25 Sept. 1707, Martha Fearnley, and had, with other issue, an eldest son, William, of Ackworth Park, co. York, who d. s. p. in 1777; and a third son,

I. FRANCIS SYKES, Esq. of Ackworth Park, b. 1732, who amassed a considerable fortune in India, where he was chief governor of Cossimbrizar, in Bengal, and purchased, upon his return to England, the manor of Basildon, in Berkshire, from the Countess of Sandwich and the Countess de Salis. It was then that the arms and crest used by this branch of the family were granted; for it appears in a record at the College of Arms, dated the 1st March, 1763, after reciting the descent of this gentleman from his ancestors at Kirkheaton, Spoforth, and Leeds, in Yorkshire, whose original was of the co. of Cumberland, and who bore for their armorial ensigns—Arg. a chevron, sable, between three fountains, or SYKES, ppr.—that he was desirous to bear the said arms, and a crest with some variation or addition, so as to distinguish his branch from all others of the name, and accordingly the present arms and crest of this branch of the family were then granted. He was created a Baronet 24 March, 1781. Sir Francis m. 1st, 7 Feb. 1766, Catherine, dau. of John Ridley, Esq., and by her (who d. 30 Dec. 1768) had two sons,

FRANCIS-WILLIAM, his successor.
John, R.N., d. on board the "Grampus," 14 Jan. 1786.

Sir Francis m. 2ndly, 2 Sept. 1774, the Hon. Elizabeth Monckton, eldest dau. of William, 2nd Viscount Galway (which lady m. 2ndly, Sir Drummond Smith, Bart., and d. 1835) and had a dau.,

Lineage.

The Taaffes are of great antiquity in the counties of Louth and Sligo, and have produced in ancient times many distinguished and eminent persons, amongst whom was Sir Richard Taaffe, who flourished temp. King EDWARD I., and d. 1287: contemporary with Sir Richard was the

LORD NICHOLAS TAAFFE, who d. in 1288, leaving two sons, John Taaffe archbishop of Armagh, who d. in 1306; and
RICHARD-FITZ-NICHOLAS TAAFFE, whose eldest son,

RICHARD TAAFFE, Esq., was seated at Ballybraggan and Castlelumpnagh. This gentleman served the office of sheriff of the co. Louth in 1315, and to his custody was committed the person of Hugh de Lacie, the younger, Earl of Ulster, after his condemnation for high treason, in inciting the invasion of Ireland by Edward Bruce, until the execution of that unfortunate nobleman at Drogheda. From this Richard lineally descended

SIR WILLIAM TAAFFE, Knt. of Harleston, who distinguished himself by his services to the crown during Tyrone's rebellion in 1597; and subsequently maintained his reputation against the Spanish force which landed at Kinsale in 1601. Sir William d. in 1630, and was s. by his only son (by his 2nd wife Ismay, dau. of Sir Christopher Bellew).

Francis, a colonel in the rebellion of 1641; m. an Italian lady and left a son, Charles, who d. s. p.

His lordship d. in 1642, and was s. by his eldest son,

NICHOLAS, 2nd earl and 3rd viscount, who fell at the battle of the Boyne, in 1691, in the command of a regiment of foot, under the banner of King JAMES, and leaving no issue, the honours devolved upon his brother,

FRANCIS, 3rd earl, the celebrated Count Taaffe of the Germanic Empire. This eminent personage, who was sent in his youth to the city of Olmütz to prosecute his studies, became first one of the pages of honour to the Emperor FERDINAND, and soon after obtained a captain's commission from CHARLES, 5th Duke of Lorraine, in his own regiment. He was subsequently chamberlain to the emperor, a marshal of the empire, and councillor of the state and cabinet. His lordship was so highly esteemed by most of the crowned heads of Europe, that when he succeeded to his hereditary honours, he was exempted from forfeiture by a special clause in the English act of parliament, 1st WILLIAM and MARY; and in the acts passed in Ireland, 9th of the same reign, to hinder the reversal of divers outlawries and attainders, it was provided, that nothing therein contained should extend to, attaint, or convict of high treason, Nicholas, Earl of Carlingford, or his brother, &c. &c. This nobleman obtained the golden key, as chamberlain, from the Emperor, CHARLES VI., as he did from his Imperial majesty's successor, which mark of distinction both his sons enjoyed. His lordship, as Count Taaffe, acquired great renown during the war with the Turks in 1738, and attained the acme of his fame by winning the victory of Belgrade. iii. Eliza-Maud-Cecilia, d. 8 April, 1853.

His lordship s. his father, as 4th baron, 20 Dec. 1850.

Lineage.

The castle and lordship of Malahide, on the sea-coast, near Dublin, have been possessed by the family of Talbot from a period contemporary with the first introduction of English government into Ireland, and at this moment they furnish an instance unusually rare, of a baronial estate having continued for upwards of 650 years in the male heirs and name of him on whom it had been originally conferred by HENRY II. It is remarkable, too, that of the ancient seigniorial estates in Ireland, whose lords were vested with the dignity of parliamentary barons, not one can be traced to have been held directly and immediately under the crown but the Lordship of MALAHIDE. In this respect Malahide seems to have been unique in Ireland, and its lords, pursuant to the nature of their original tenure and the terms of their royal charters, never rendered homage, suit, or service, to any but the crown, nor acknowledged any superior but the King of England alone. Richard de Talbott, who is mentioned in Domesday-Book, was the common ancestor of the Lords of Malahide and of the Earls of Shrewsbury; and in consequence of the well-known affinity of those two branches, the family in Ireland, by ancient entails and settlements, made the members of the house of Shrewsbury next heirs in remainder to their Irish estates.

RICHARD TALBOT, "Chevalier," was Lord of Malahide in the reign of HENRY II. and after that monarch conferred the dominion of Ireland on his son, Prince (subsequently King) JOHN, Sir Richard obtained a confirmatory grant of his lordship, with Sach and Sech, Tol and Them, infangthef, and the judgement of Water, and of Iron, the Duel, the Pit, the Gallows, and all other the appendages of civil and criminal jurisdictions as possessed by the baronage of that day, to hold to him and his heirs by rendering to the king the service of one archer with a horse and coat-of-mail for ever. Sir Richard had also confirmed to him the advowson of the church of Malahide, and having, about the year 1193, presented his brother, Walter Talbot, to that benefice, he died, leaving two sons, Reginald and Adam, The elder,

REGINALD TALBOT, being a minor at his father's decease, the wardship of the estates devolved to the crown; and during his nonage, Walter his uncle, having died, the church became vacant, whereupon Henry de Londres, Archbishop of Dublin, then acting as justiciary, or chief governor of Ireland, appointed a clerk to the benefice in right of the king, as is set forth in an ancient inquisition. Reginald soon after died without issue, and was succeeded by his brother and heir,

ADAM TALBOT, Lord of Malahide, whose descent is specifically set forth in some proceedings taken by the crown to protect the estates of the family against certain encroachments of the Archbishop of Dublin. His son and heir was

RICHARD TALBOT, who is entered on the Exchequer roll of 1278, as Lord Richard Talbot, and who by the name of Richard-Fitz-Adam Talbot, Knt. granted to King EDWARD I., in the year 1286, all wardships, reliefs, marriages, escheats, &c., happening within his Lordship of Malahide; and it further appeared by the same deed, which is enrolled on the Antiquissimæ rolls of Ireland, that he settled Malahide on his son,

SIR MILO TALBOT, whose wife was Alianore, and who was succeeded by his son,

SIR RICHARD TALBOT, who was commanded, in 1316, to appear at the Exchequer with one horse caparisoned, to hear and perform what the judges there, by advice of the king's privy-council, should order, as part of the service by which he held the family estates. On the remembrancer's roll of the 9th of EDWARD II., he is entered as being abroad in the public service, or "in servitio domini Regis;" and afterwards, while at home, was entrusted with high power by the crown. He was the associate in arms of Sir John Bermingham, who with several noblemen and gentlemen, having defeated Bruce when he invaded Ireland, was created Earl of Louth by EDWARD II. in 1319, with £20 yearly fee out of the profits and rents of the county; and this creation, which vested the seigniority of Louth in Sir John, was so resented by the more ancient families of De Verdon, Gernon, Savage, &c., that in the year 1329, the earl and about one hundred and sixty noblemen and gentlemen were slain by those families at Ballibragan. Historians have all agreed in noticing this event, and amongst the few names which they have left us of those who were killed, are those of the earl, some of his kinsmen, and Talbot, Lord of Malahide. By his wife, Margaret (de Ashebourne), he had a son and heir,

THOMAS TALBOT, who at his father's death, being a minor, was taken into the crown's guardianship, and King EDWARD, by patent tested at Guilford, 7 July, 1329, made a grant of the wardship of all his estates during minority. On coming of age, the king sent orders to the Exchequer that those estates should be discharged of the royal services due when certain scutages and hostings were proclaimed, as he the heir was then a minor. By a patent, dated at Westminster, 20 May, 1352, the king granted that he, Lord Thomas, for life, should be exempt from juries and assizes, and should not be made sheriff, escheator, or other minister against his will. On 15 Feb. in the 46th year of EDWARD III., a parliament, or great council, was convoked in Ireland, and the writs of summons to the prelates, peers, &c., are still remaining on the close-roll of that year; amongst the peers is "Thomam Talbot, militem;" and it is a circumstance worth noticing, that he and all the other peers of Ireland (two only excepted) are upon this occasion directed to be forewarned by the county sheriff. He was afterwards summoned in the year 1374, a parliament being called; but particularly a special parliamentary writ, tested at Naas, 20 Nov., was issued to the same Sir Thomas, and of the forty-four lay peers then summoned, his name stands in the consimilar writ as the fourth after the Earls of Ormond, Kildare, and Desmond; and by the foregoing and other ancient lists still existing it is proved this family had place and rank amongst the most ancient parliamentary peers of Ireland. By his wife, Agnes, he had issue two sons, Richard and Thomas.

SIR RICHARD TALBOT, the elder son, was sheriff of the co. Dublin; and by his wife, Cecilia (who afterward married Robert Gallane, and had dower in Clonaghless), left issue a son,

THOMAS TALBOT, a minor at his father's death, who died, leaving a son and heir,

CHRISTOPHER TALBOT, whose guardianship and estates in the cos. of Dublin, Meath, and Kildare, were granted to Sir Thomas Fleming, Baron of Slane, by patent, dated at Westminster, March 1, in the first year of King HENRY IV. Christopher died a minor and without issue, whereupon the lordship devolved on

THOMAS TALBOT, son of Lord Thomas, (who was summoned to the great councils and parliament in the reign of EDWARD III., as above mentioned.) For him, as "Thomas filius Thomæ Talbot militis," homage of two-thirds of Malahide was respited, 12 Nov. 1430; but he died soon after, as it appears that on the 8 Nov. 1462, the king granted to Thomas Cusacke and others the custody of all estates in the several counties of Dublin, Meath, and Kildare, of which he had lately died seised, and which were now vested in the crown by the minority of his son and heir,

RICHARD TALBOT, Lord of Malahide, who m. Matilda, dau. of Christopher, Baron of Killeen. Of this lady a word en passant. There is among the ancient paintings in the castle at Malahide a whole length, in which the horned cap of the 15th century is very conspicuous; and this painting family tradition points out as the Hon. Maud Plunkett, dau. of Christopher, 1st Baron of Killeen, the widow of Hussey, Baron of Galtrim, and wife of Sir Richard Talbot. There is also in the ruined church attached to the castle an altar-tomb with a representation in bold relief of the same lady, and the escutcheons at the base are charged with the arms of Plunkett, Cusack, and Talbot. Of this lady, Maud, the legend of the country pathetically tells us, that she was maid, wife, and widow in one day, her husband having been killed immediately after marriage: and it must be here observed, as a proof of the accuracy of such traditions and family reputation, that on examining the public records it is found that Matilda Plunkett was daughter of Lord Killeen, and was married to Thomas Hussey, Baron of Galtrim, who was murdered as already mentioned, and that she obtained a patent wherein the king recognises her as wife of Sir Richard Talbot, and granted her possession of her late husband's (Thomas, Baron of Galtrim) estates in the county of Meath. Her ladyship, on the death of Sir Richard, married John Cornewalsh, who was chief-baron in the reign of HENRY VI., on the Wednesday after the feast of the blessed Virgin Mary, 1444, and enjoyed with her husband, dower out of the lordships of Galtrim and of Malahide, in right of her two former lords. There are numerous other records as to this lady in the Exchequer, where it can be traced that she died on the 17 July, in the year 1482, having survived her 3rd husband several years. Sir Richard Talbot, by the said Maud, his wife, left a son and heir,

THOMAS TALBOT, who, on the 15 Nov, in the year 1469, had a patent of privileges conferred on him by the crown, as "Thomas Talbot, Armiger Dominus de Malahide;" and in the evidence-chamber are several deeds, whereby the lordships of Louth, Ashe, Castlefrank, &c. were conveyed to him by Sir James Strangeways, Knt., Richard Strangeways, his son and heir, John Conyers, Knt., Margery, his wife, and John Conyers, their son, who were co-heirs of the Barons Darcy of Knaith, and the latter of whom was ancestor to the Earls of Holdernesse. On the 15 Nov. 1469, the king granted him a patent as "Thomas Talbot, Armiger Dominus de Malahide," exempting him from attendance at assizes; and on the 21 Sept. 1475, he had licence, as Lord of Malahide, to absent himself out of Ireland for three years. Soon after this, his majesty King EDWARD IV., by a patent under the great seal, still preserved amongst the family deeds at the castle, 8th March 1476, granted him all the customs of merchandize coming to the port of Malahide, and that he and his heirs should be admirals of that port, with power of holding courts of Admiralty, and appointing officers, gaugers, searchers, water-bailiffs, &c.; and further, that he should have respite of his homage due to the crown for that manor for fifty years; that he should not be obliged to take on him the order of knighthood; that he should for ever have outfangthef and free warren within the manor; that neither he nor his tenants should be compelled to attend the county courts, but should have view of frank pledge by his seneschal, and leet and law days, with the return and execution of all writs; that none of his heirs should serve the office of coroner or escheator; that he and his heirs should hold their court, and hear and determine all pleas to any amount by his seneschal, or other officers, with power to arrest, attach, &c. within said lordship, to hold a court baron, with all amercements, ransoms for escapes of felons, fugitives, or murderers; with licence of absence for him and his heirs out of Ireland, and many other valuable privileges. In the 16th of EDWARD IV., when required in the Exchequer to do homage for his lordship of Malahide and other estates, he pleaded his exemption by the above patent, and was accordingly exonerated from homage, as he and his descendants afterwards were from several other duties and restrictions pursuant to the same grant. He was twice married; by his first wife, whose name was Sommerton, he had a son,

I. THOMAS, who s. him.

By his second wife, Elizabeth Buckley, he had four more sons,

II. John, ancestor of Talbot, of Dardistown, co. Meath.
III. Richard.
IV. Thomas, m. Alson Warde, and had five sons, Gilbert; Peter; Nicholas; Robert; and Simon.
V. William, ancestor of Talbot, of Robertstown, co. Meath.

He d. 23 July, 1487, when all his estates in the counties of Dublin, Meath, Louth, and Kildare, were taken into the king's hands. By a settlement which was executed 14 Sept. previous to his death, his estates were conveyed to him by trustees as "Dominus de Malahide," and to Elizabeth, his wife, for life, and remainders were created therein for his younger sons. He was s. by his eldest son,

SIR PETER TALBOT, who did homage in the Exchequer for the family lordships, and is styled "Dominus de Malahide" in the records of that court. He m. Catherine FitzGerald, and by her had four sons and three daus.

I. THOMAS (Sir), his successor.
II. John.
III. Walter, of Trim and Belingstown.
IV. William, to whom were left the Waterford and Kilkenny estates.
I. Elinor. II. Amy.
III. Margaret, m. Sir Thomas Eustace, created, 1541, Viscount Baltinglass.

Having vested his estates in trustees by his last will, 12 Sept. 1529, Sir Peter, desired to be buried in the church of Malahide, by Dame Jenett Eustace; and after leaving several considerable bequests for the repair and maintenance of the chancel, he devised all his lordships of Malahide, Garristown, Louth, and Castlering, to his son and heir, Thomas, and next to his sons, John and Walter, with remainder to his brothers, John and William; all his estates in the county of Waterford and Kilkenny he leaves to his son William. By inquisition he was found to have died 10 July, 20 HENRY VIII., leaving, as his son and heir,

SIR THOMAS TALBOT, who, on the 18 Dec. in the year 1529, had a grant of livery of all his father's estates in several counties in Ireland, being then aged 28 years. Sir Thomas, 16 Oct. 1532 being sued in the Exchequer for not executing the office of sheriff of the county of Dublin, to which he had been elected and appointed, was called to the bar there, and informed by the court that it was the pleasure of the lord-deputy, Sir William Skeffington, that he should act as sheriff, and was required to say whether he was willing to exercise that office. Sir Thomas, however, pleaded the patent granted to his grandfather by King EDWARD IV., already mentioned, exonerating him and his heirs from such offices, and declared that he would not act as sheriff; whereupon the proceedings were discontinued. He m. Katherine Betagh, of Moynalty, co. Meath, and had three sons,

I. WILLIAM, his heir.
II. Peter, m. Elizabeth, dau. of Robert Preston, Esq. of Balmadon, co. Dublin, but d. s. p., ante 1595.
III. Robert, of Carton, co. Kildare, whose son,

SIR WILLIAM TALBOT, of Carton was created a Bart. 4 Feb. 1622. He m. Alison, dau. of John Netterville, Esq., of Castleton, co. Meath, and d. 16 March, 1633, leaving with eight daus., for whom see BURKE'S Extinct Peerage, as many sons,

1 SIR ROBERT, 2nd Bart of Carton, m. Grace Calvert, dau. of George, Lord Baltimore, by whom he had a dau., FRANCES, wife of Richard Talbot, Esq. of Malahide, as hereafter.

3 Garrett, m. Margaret, dau. of Henry Gaidon, Esq. of co. Louth, and was father of Sir William Talbot, Bart., Comte de Tyrconnel.
4 James.

8 Richard, Earl and Duke of Tyrconnel, who by patent dated 20 June, 1685, was created Baron of Talbot's town, Viscount of Baltinglass, and Earl of Tyrconnel, with remainder in tail-male to his nephews; and was subsequently, 20 March, 1689, advanced to the dignity of Marquis and Duke of Tyrconnel by King JAMES II., in whose serviee, as chief-governor of Ireland, he died. His Grace m. 1st, Catherine Bayntun; and 2ndly, Frances, "La Belle Jennings," eldest dau. and co-heir of Richard Jennings, Esq. of Sandridge, co. Herts, and sister to Sarah, Duchess of Marlborough. After the death of the duke the duchess was permitted to erect a house (still standing) in King Street, Dublin, as a nunnery for poor Clares; and in this obscure retirement, burying all the attractions and graces which once so adorned the court of England, she d. at the age of 92, and was interred in Patrick's Cathedral, 9 March, 1730. The Duke of Tyrconnel left by Francis, his second wife, two daus., of whom the elder, Lady Charlotte, m. Prince Vintimiglia, and had two daus., the Countess de Verac and the Princess Belmonte, who both d. s. p.

Sir Thomas Talbot was s. by his son and heir,

WILLIAM TALBOT, who became possessed of the lordships of Malahide, Garristown, Louth, Ashe, and Castlering, with all the courts and royalties attached thereto, and to his estates in the counties of Waterford and Kilkenny. He m. Mary, dau. of Peter Bermingham, Lord Chief Justice of Ireland, and had four sons and five daus.,

William Talbot having settled all his estates in the counties of Dublin, Meath, and Kildare on his grandson, Richard, and the heirs male of his own body, left a remainder over to the use "of the right heirs of John Talbot, of Grafton, within the realme of Englande," ancestor to the Earls of Shrewsbury, and his heirs for ever. To his 2nd son, John, he left his Louth estates, and d. 4 Feb. 1595, leaving his grandson,

RICHARD TALBOT, his heir, then aged eleven years and three months; after succeeding to his estates, he, in common with the other ancient and dignified families of the country, incurred the tyrannous jealousy of Lord Strafford, then lord-lieutenant of Ireland, who sought to wrest from him the admiralty of the port of Malahide, and other his valuable rights; but on pleading the ancient charters under which his family had so long inherited, the court gave judgment against the crown, and thus Strafford's designs were defeated. He m. Elizabeth, dau. of Sir German Kempe, Knt., co. Sussex, by whom he had,

This ancient family (whatever doubt there may be as to the existence to this Baronetcy) derives its surname from the manor of Temple, co.   3 EDMUND, of Sulby, co. Northampton, who m. in 1647, Eleanor, dau. and co-heir of Sir Stephen Harvey, of Hardingstone, co. Northampton, and left issue. It is from this Edmund that the present baronet deduces descent.

Sir Thomas was s. by his eldest son,

Lineage.

I. PATRICK THREIPLAND, Esq. of Fingask Castle, co. Perth, was made a knight-bachelor by King CHARLES II., in the year 1674, and afterwards a Baronet of Nova Scotia, by King JAMES II., 10 Nov. 1687, with remainder to his heirs male. Sir Patrick was a stanch supporter of the family then on the throne. He took an active lead in the politics of his country during the usurpation of CROMWELL, and for many years successively discharged, with infinite credit, several important public duties, which were committed to his care. He m. 13 March, 1665, Euphemia, dau. of John Conqueror, Esq. of Frierton, by whom he had one son and six daus., and dying in 1689, was s. by his son,

Sir David Threipland having imbibed all the Tory principles of his father, held a secret correspondence with the son of JAMES II. and his adherents, and, in 1715, he was among the first, with his sons and a party of followers, to aid the Earl of Mar in setting up the standard of the Chevalier de St. George, and in proclaiming that prince king under the title of JAMES VIII. of Scotland and III. of England; in consequence of which, Sir David's title was attainted by act of parliament, in the 1st year of King GEORGE I., and his estates and effects were annexed to the crown. He d. in 1746, and was s. by his youngest and only surviving son,

III. (SIR) STUART, who being also strongly attached to the cause of the house of Stuart, linked his fate with that of the unfortunate CHARLES-EDWARD in 1745, and participated in all the difficulties and misery which that prince and his followers were doomed to undergo. After the result of the battle of Culloden, so fatal to the hopes of the Jacobites, Sir Stuart Threipland's maternal property, as had been the case with his paternal in 1716, was forfeited, and a reward having been offered for his apprehension, he contrived to escape into France, where he remained at the court of the Stuarts, until the act of indemnity permitted his return to Scotland in security, when, at a sale of forfeited lands, in 1782, he repurchased the family estates, which are now in the possession of his descendants. He m. 1st, in 1753, Jannet, eldest dau. of David Sinclair, Esq. of Southdun, by whom he had a son and dau., who both d. issueless; and 2ndly, in 1761, Miss Jannet-Budge Murray, of Pennyland, by whom he had four sons and a dau. viz.,

THOMAS THROCKMORTON, Esq. This gentleman's life was one continued scene of difficulty owing to his religious opinions, his estate being frequently under sequestration and his person often imprisoned. His severest calamity, however, was the loss of the manor of Ravenston, which he held by lease from the crown, at the yearly rent of £63 13*s.*, payable at Lady-day and Michaelmas, or within forty days after these periods; but advantage having been taken many years after (occasioned by a servant's losing part of the money at gaming, which he was sent to pay), he was deprived of his estate; and although the Queen's receiver subsequently had the money, and gave an acquittance for it as if paid at the proper period, yet he could never obtain restitution of the property. i. John-James-Dudley-Stuart, Viscount Raynham, b. 16 Oct. 1866.

Lineage.

"The patriarch of this noble family," says Collins, quoting for authority the Visitations of Shropshire and Norfolk, "was Lodovic, a noble Norman, who, coming into England in Henry the First's reign, assumed the surname of Townshend, and took to wife, Elizabeth, the dau. and heir of Sir Thomas de Havile, in whose right he became possessed of the Manor of Havile and of Raynham, where his posterity have ever since continued to have their principal residence." Directly descended from this personage was,

Roger Townshend, a lawyer of great eminence in the reign of Edward IV, and M.P. for Calne, in Wiltshire. In the 1st year of Edward V., Mr. Townshend was constituted king's serjeant-at-law, and the year following nominated by Richard III. one of the justices of the court of Common Pleas, wherein he continued until his decease, his patent being renewed by Henry VII., who also conferred upon him the honour of knighthood. Sir Roger m. Anne, dau. and co-heiress of Sir William de Brewse, Knt. of Wonham Hall, co. Suffolk; in consequence of which alliance the Townshend family may quarter the arms of the ancient Barons of Brember, of the family of Braose, and likewise of Milo, Earl of Hereford, Newmarch, Baron Brecknock, &c. &c. Sir Roger had issue six sons* and four daus. He d. in the 8th year of Henry VII., and his eldest son, Sir Roger Townshend, Knt., dying without issue, we shall proceed with the 2nd son,

John Townshend, Esq. of Brampton, co. Norfolk who m. Eleanor, dau. of Sir John Heydon, K.B., of Beaconsthorp, in the same co., and was s. by his eldest son,

Richard Townshend, Esq. of Brampton. This gentleman m. Catharine, dau. and co-heiress of Sir Humphry Brown, Knt. of Ridley, co. Chester, one of the justices of the court of Common Pleas; and dying in 1544, was s. by his only son,

Sir Roger Townshend, of Raynham, who received the honour of knighthood in 1588, from Charles, Lord Howard of Effingham, for his spirited conduct against the Armada. Sir Roger m. Jane, youngest dau. of Sir Michael Stanhope, Knt. of Shelford, co. Nottingham; and dying in 1500, was s. by his eldest son,

SIR JOHN TOWNSHEND, knighted by the Earl of Essex at the memorable siege of Cadiz. He was M.P. for the co. of Norfolk, temp. ELIZABETH, and a very distinguished member of the first parliament of King JAMES, during the sitting of which, however, Sir John had the misfortune to engage in a quarre. with Sir Matthew Brown, of Beachworth Castle, which terminated in a duel, fought on horseback, on Hounslow Heath, wherein both the combatants were mortally wounded, Sir Matthew dying on the spot, and Sir John Townshend, soon after, on the 2nd Aug. 1603, leaving two sons by Anne, eldest dau. and co-heiress of Sir Nathaniel Bacon, K.B. of Stiffkey, co. This gentleman rendered essential services to the Royal cause during the Usurpation: he was one of the six commoners who, with six peers, went to the Hague to entreat King CHARLES II. to return to his dominions, and take the government of them into his own hands. It was he also who fortified the town of Lynn for his majesty's reception, and was the commander-in-chief of the Royalist forces on the coast of Norfolk. Clarendon gives a brief memoir of Sir Horatio in his History of the Rebellion. Being thus one of the most forward in restoring the monarchy, Sir Horatio was, after the accomplishment of that most desirable event, created (20 April, 1661), Baron Townshend of Lynn Regis; and advanced 11 Dec. 1682, to the dignity of Viscount Townshend of Raynham His lordship m. 1st, Mary, dau. and sole heir of Sir Edward Lewkenor, of Denham in Suffolk, but had no issue. Lineage.

The old and knightly family of Trafford, seated at Trafford, in the county palatine of Lancaster, from a period antecedent to the Norman Conquest, has preserved, from time immemorial, an unbroken male descent.

RANDOLPHUS DE TRAFFORD, who flourished "ante Conquestum," as the family pedigree sets forth, was father of RANDOLPHUS, of whom mention is made in two deeds to "Radulphus filius Radulphi," by which it appears that Radulphus, the father, "was then dead, and had flourished in King CANUTE the Dane his time, about the yeare 1030, and perhaps died after, in St. Edward the Confessor his time, about the year 1050; hee had noe surname, as then few of our Saxon nobilitie or gentry had." From this Radulphus sprang the great house of TRAFFORD, which has since uninterruptedly held a most distinguished place amongst the first families of Lancashire. His son,

ROBERT FILIUS RADULPHI, was of full age at the time of the Conquest, and about A.D. 1080 he, with his father, received the king's peace and protection from Hugh de Massy, Baron of Dunham Massy; his son,

This ancient family derives its surname from the lordship of Trelawny, or Treloen (see Doomsday Book), in the parish of Alternon, Cornwall, which, in the time of EDWARD the Confessor, was held by its earliest known ancestor,

EDUNI, whose son,

HAMELIN, was likewise the owner of Treloen after the Norman invasion, by a tenure from the Earl of Mortain, as found at the General Survey. This Hamelin had a son Richard, who was succeeded by William, owner of a knight's fee from Reginald de Botrell, whose dau. m. this Williams son, John Trelawny. He was succeeded by his son and heir, William m. to Joan Trewynnick. He left issue, John, in the time of EDWARD I., who m. Lucy Serjeaux, dau. of Sir Richard Serjeaux. Under the figure of King HENRY, which formerly stood over the great gate at Launceston, was the distich,—

"He that will do ought for me,
Let him love well Sir John Tirlawnee."

By Agnes Trogodeck he had a son, Sir Richard, M.P. for Liskeard, in the 9th HENRY V. Dying without issue male, John (2nd son of Sir John) succeeded him, and was M.P. for Truro (27th HENRY VI.) Lineage.

The antiquity of the noble and illustrious name of HAY is sufficiently attested both by ancient and modern historians; and though there has been no positive disproof of the traditional account of their origin, from the battle of Loncarty, about the year 980, which is so fully narrated in many Scotch histories, yet some other conjectures have been mooted which rest on much presumptive evidence, a singular concurrence of circumstances. For instance,—

The surname of Hay came originally from France: that there were lands and a lordship of that denomination in Normandy, from which it is presumable the surname was first assumed, long before the time of William the Conqueror. This is attested by undoubted authority.

Humphry, surnamed De Vetulis, Lord of Pont Audemar, in Normandy, and one of the most considerable families in that country, m. Albreda de la Haie, or Haya, by whom he had a son, Roger de Bellamont, or Beaumont, Lord of Pont Audemar, who gave the name of Beaumont Roger to a town in Normandy, and was one of the council who persuaded William, Duke of Normandy, to invade England, before the year 1066.

In the list of the great captains that came over from Normandy to England with that famous prince, Le Sieur de la Haya is expressly mentioned, with several others of the same name; which plainly shows that they were a numerous and flourishing family before the Conquest.

There were several religious houses founded by them, which appears from the same history, particularly Le Abbay de Blancheland, in the diocese of Contasines, was founded and endowed by Richard de la Haya, in Normandy, anno 1155.

The Hays in Normandy had the same armorial bearings with those in Scotland. For some generations after they were settled in Scotland many of them were designed by the appellation of De la Haya; all which are strong presumptive proofs that they came originally from France; and it is certain that there are families of that surname subsisting in Normandy to this day, who deduce their pedigree above a hundred years before the Conquest.

As, then, there is clear proof that several of that name came to Britain in the year 1066; and as it appears from many records that they were settled and making a figure in Scotland within less than a hundred years thereafter it is extremely probable that some of that race came to Scotland with King DAVID I.; for it is shown by all Scottish histories, that several of Norman extraction, who had contracted a friendship with that amiable prince when in England, went with him on his return, and settled in Scotland, from whom some of the most considerable families in Scotland descend, such as Bruce, Maules, Somervilles, Colviles, Normanviles, Montgomeries, Baliols, and many others. Yet whatever may be the strength of these conjectures, it is certain that

WILLIAM DE HAYA settled in Lothian nearly seven centuries ago, and filled the office of royal Butler during the reigns of MALCOLM IV. and WILLIAM the Lion. He d. about the year 1170, and left, by his wife Juliana, dau. of Ranulph de Soulis, feudal lord of Liddesdale,

ROGER VAUX, whose great-grandson,

ELIAS VAUX, obtained the manor of Harrowden by his marriage with the heiress. His grandson,

VAVASOUR OF HAZLEWOOD.

VAVASOUR, SIR EDWARD, of Hazlewood, co. York, b. 17 Jan. 1815; s. his father as 2nd bart., 15 March, 1847.

Lineage.

The eminent family of VAVASOR, or VALVASOR (as Camden has it), derived their name from their office, being formerly King's valvasor, a degree then little inferior to the baronial. "There are," says Bracton, "for the civil government of mankind, emperors, kings, and princes, magnates, or VALVASORS, and knights."

SIR MAUGER LE VAVASOR is mentioned in Domesday Book, as holding in chief of the Percys, Earls of Northumberland, considerable manors and estates in Stutton, Eselwood, Saxall (Saxon), &c. He was father of another

SIR MAUGER LE VAVASOR, father of

SIR WILLIAM LE VAVASOR, lord of Hazlewood, judge in the reign of HENRY II., and one of the witnesses to the charter of the abbey of Sawley, in Yorkshire, refounded by Matilda de Percy, Countess of Warwick. To this abbey he himself also made a considerable donation of land. He was s. by his son,

SIR ROBERT LE VALVASOR, who in 21st HENRY III. was high sheriff of Nottingham and Derby; and from 31st of the same reign having served for eight years successively. He had likewise the custody of the Honour of Peverell. He m. Julian, dau. of Gilbert de Ross, of Steeton, by whom he had issue,

He gave to the archbishop and chapter of York, from the above-mentioned quarry in Theves-dale, the stone of which that noble edifice, the Minster, was erected. He also made and founded St. Leonard's Chapel, in his castle at Hazlewood, which, on the foregoing account, was made extra-parochial by the archbishop; the king's charter for the chapel is dated 29th April, 1286, EDWARD I.; the confirmation is dated 5th June, 1452, being the 31st of HENRY VI. Sir Thomas Vavasor, the lineal descendant of this baron, so distinguished himself, with others of the nobility, by raising forces and equipping vessels to defend Queen ELIZABETH against the Spanish armada, that the queen, in reward of this zeal and out of particular regard for one of her maids of honour, who was a Vavasor, and acknowledged by her majesty as her kinswoman, would never suffer the chapel at Haslewood to be molested, where the Roman Catholic rites still continue to be celebrated. Lord Vavasor m. Nichola, dau. of Sir Stephen Wallis, Knt. of Newton, by whom he had issue, three sons,

WALDEGRAVE, EARL (Sir William-Frederick Waldegrave, M.A.), co. Northampton; Viscount Chewton, and Baron Waldegrave, of Chewton, co. Somerset, and a Baronet; capt. 1st London Rifle Brigade; b. 2 March, 1851; s. his grandfather as 9th earl, 24 Oct. 1859; m. 5 Aug. 1874, the Hon. Mary-Dorothea Palmer, 2nd dau. of Lord Selborne, and has a dau.,

Mary-Wilfreda, b. 3 Sept. 1875.

Lineage.

The surname of this family, derived from a place in the co. Northampton, was anciently written Walgrave; and we find, so far back as the year 1205, John de Walgrave serving as sheriff of London. His great-great-grandson,

SIR RICHARD WALGRAVE, Knt. of Smallbridge, co. Suffolk, having represented that shire in parliament in the reigns of EDWARD III. and RICHARD II., was chosen speaker of the House of Commons in the latter. He d. in 1401, and was s. by his son (by his wife Joan, dau. and heiress of Silvester of Buers, in Suffolk),

SIR RICHARD WALGRAVE, Knt., who, succeeding to the inheritance of his mother, was styled Lord of Buers and Silvesters; which Sir Richard, with Lord Clinton, Sir John Howard, and Lord Falconbridge, was appointed, in 1402, to keep the seas; and landing 10,000 men in Brittany, won the town of Conquet and the Isle of Rhé. He m. Jane, dau. and heiress of Sir Thomas Montechensy, of Edwardstown, co. Suffolk; and dying in 1436, was s. by his son,

SIR WILLIAM WALGRAVE, Knt., whose son,

SIR THOMAS WALGRAVE, received the honour of knighthood for his valour at Towton Field, 20 March, 1461, the day of the battle. Sir Thomas m. Elizabeth, eldest dau. and co-heiress of Sir John Fray, Knt., lord-chief-baron of the Exchequer, by whom he had, with three daus., three sons, WILLIAM, his successor; EDWARD, ancestor of the present family; and Richard. Sir Thomas d. in 1500, and was s. by his eldest son; while the 2nd,

EDWARD WALDEGRAVE, Esq., settled at Boreley, in Essex. This gentleman m. Elizabeth, dau. and co-heiress of John Cheyney, Esq. of the co. of Devon; and dying in 1501, was s. by his only son,

JOHN WALDEGRAVE, Esq., who m. Lora, dau. of Sir John Rochester; and dying 6 Oct. 1543, was s. by his eldest son,

EDWARD WALDEGRAVE, Esq. This gentleman had a grant to himself and his heirs of the manor and rectory of West Haddon, co. Northampton, in the 1st year of EDWARD VI.; and in the seventh year of the same reign, being a principal officer in the household of the Lady MARY, (afterwards queen), he incurred the king's displeasure by refusing to forbid the celebration of mass in her house, and, together with Sir Robert Rochester, his uncle, and Sir Francis Englefield, the two other principal officers, who had offended on the same account, was first committed to the Fleet, 29 Aug., and two days afterwards, sent to the Tower. Sir Edward remained in custody, although permitted to remove to his own house in consequence of indisposition, until the accession of his royal mistress to the throne, when he was recompensed by being sworn of the privy council, constituted master of the great wardrobe, and receiving a grant of the manor of Chewton, in Somersetshire. Sir Edward was subsequently a man of great power during the reign of MARY, but after her decease he was divested of his employments, and committed to the Tower by ELIZABETH, where he d. 1 Sept. 1561, leaving two sons and three daus., by his wife, Frances, dau. of Sir Edward Nevil, Knt., and was s. by the elder,

CHARLES WALDEGRAVE, Esq. of Staininghall, in Norfolk, and of Chewton, co Somerset. This gentleman m. Jeronyma, dau. of Sir Henry Jerningham, of Cossey Hall, vice-chancellor, master of the horse, and a member of the privy council, temp. Queen MARY; and dying 25 Jan. 1550, was s. by his only son,

I. SIR EDWARD WALDEGRAVE, Knt., who at the advanced age of seventy took up arms in the royal cause at the breaking out of the civil wars, and was in consequence created a Baronet, 1 Aug. 1643. At the impounding of Lord Essex's army in Cornwall, 1644, Sir Edward with his regiment, kept the pass at Saltash; and being charged by the parliamentary horse, in an attempt to break through, he thrice rallied his men, and although twice unhorsed, eventually succeeded in making forty prisoners. This gallant veteran, who continued to distinguish himself in the council and the field, was s. at his decease, by his eldest son (by Eleanor, dau. of Sir Thomas Lovel, of Harling, co. Norfolk),

Lineage.

William Greville, of London (son of William Grevill, seated at Campden, co. Gloucester, 21 Richard II., and grandson of John Grevill, who d. before 23 Edward III.) lies interred at Campden. This William was living 21 Richard II., as that monarch acknowledges receiving a loan from him and his father of the enormous sum (in those days) of 300 marks, 10 Aug. 1397. He purchased, in the following year, the manor of Milcote, co Warwick, from Sir Walter Beauchamp, Knt., and entailed it upon his heir male. He d. 3 Henry IV., and was s. by his son,

John Greville, of Campden, who served the office of sheriff of Glamorganshire 6 Henry IV. He m. 1st, Sibil, dau. and heir of Sir Robert Corbet; and 2ndly, Joyce, dau. of Sir Walter Cocksey, Knt., sister and heiress of Hugh Cocksey, and widow of — Beauchamp. The grandson of this John,

Sir Thomas Greville, of Milcote, assumed the name of Cocksey, upon inheriting the estates of his grandmother's family. He d. 14 Henry VII., without issue, when the lands of the Cockseys passed to the heirs of that family; and Milcote, with the other estates of the Grevilles, devolved, according to he entail of William Greville, upon

John Greville, of Drayton (great-grandson of Lewis or Lodowick Greville, and his wife, Margaret,* sole dau. and heir of Sir Giles Ardene, of Drayton, co. Oxford). This John Greville was one of the justices for the gaol-delivery of Warwick, 15 Henry VII. He m. Jane, dau. of Sir Humphrey Forster, of Harpedon, co. Oxford, and was s. by his elder son,

Sir Edward Greville, of Milcote, a distinguished military character in the reign of Henry VIII., particularly at the battle of Spurs. In the 13th of the same king, Sir Edward Greville obtained the wardship of Elizabeth, one of the daus., and at length sole heiress, of Edward Willoughby, only son of Robert, Lord Brooke, and his wife, Elizabeth, one of the daus. and co-heirs of the Lord Beauchamp of Powyk,† which wardship tended in a great degree to the subsequent elevation of the family. Sir Edward m. Anne, dau. of John Denton, Esq of Amersden, co. Bucks, and had issue (he d. 20 Henry VII.),

i. John (Sir), of Milcote and Drayton, M.P. for the co. of Warwick, m Elizabeth, dau. of John Spencer, Esq. of Hodnot, and had an only son,

Sir Edward Greville, of Milcote and Drayton, m. Joan, dau. of Sir Thomas Bromley, lord chancellor of England, and left several daus. Sir Edward, being in debt, sold his whole estate to Lionel Cranfield, Earl of Middlesex; and thus the elder branch of the Grevilles became extinct.

ii. Fulke. iii. Thomas. iv. Edward.

The 2nd son,

Sir Fulke Greville, Knt., m. Elizabeth Willoughby, the ward of his father, and the greatest heiress then in England (see Burke's Extinct Peerage). The account of this marriage is in a manuscript, entitled The Genealogie, Life, and Death of Robert, Lord Brooke, written in 1644, and in the possession of Earl Brooke. "In the days of Henry VIII. (says the author of the manuscript), I read of Sir Edward Grevil, of Milcote, who had the wardership of Elizabeth, one of the daus. of the Lord Brooke's son. The knight made a motion to his ward, to be married to John, his eldest son; but she refused, saying, that she did like better of Fulke, his 2nd son. He told her that he had no estate of land to maintain her; and that he was in the king's service of warre beyond the seas, and therefore his return was very doubtful. Shee replied and said, that shee had an estate sufficient both for him and for herself, and that she would pray for his safeties and wait for his coming. Upon his returne home, for the worthy services he had performed, he was, by King Henry, honoured with knighthood; and then married Elizabeth, the dau. of the Lord Brooke's son." By this marriage, the manor of Alcester, and many other fair lordships and lands, came in right of his wife to Sir Fulke, who, seating himself at Beauchamp's Court, and augmenting his large estate by the purchase of sundry lands in the neighbourhood, raised his family to high distinction in the co. Warwick. Of this marriage there were, with other issue,

Lineage of Wauchope.

This is a branch of the very ancient and distinguished family of Wauchope, of Niddrie. (See BURKE'S Landed Gentry.)

JOHN WAUCHOPE, second son of Sir John Wauchope, of Niddrie, by his wife Anne Hamilton, of Redhouse, was christened in 1633, when King CHARLES I. was in Scotland, who took from his own neck and put round that of the child, a most beautiful gold and enamel chain, which is still in the possession of the family. This John Wauchope got a charter of Edmonstone 9 June, 1671, having acquired that estate by his wife Anna, dau. of James Rait, of Edmonstone, by his second wife Anna, dau of Alexander Hay, of Monkton. In 1672, this gentleman was appointed a lord of session, as Lord Edmonstone, when Charles Maitland, of Hatton, brother to the Duke of Lauderdale, was superseded; but having disobliged King JAMES II. by voting against a scheme of educating the young Marquess of Montrose in the Roman catholic faith, was displaced in 1688. This was the more remarkable, as Lord Edmonstone's brother, Andrew Wauchope, of Niddrie, was a Roman Catholic. Lord Edmonstone had issue,

I. JOHN, his heir.
II. ANDREW, successor to his brother.
I. ANNE, m. 26 June, 1683, PATRICK DON, of Aldtouneburn, 3rd son of Sir Alexander Don, 1st bart. (see ante, issue of 1st bart.) and had issue, WAVENEY.

WAVENEY, BARON (Sir Robert-Alexander-Shafto Adair), of South Elmham, in the county of Suffolk, and a Baronet, lieut.-col. commandant Suffolk artillery, aide-de-camp to the Queen, M.P. for Cambridge, 1847 to 1852, and 1854 to 1857, b. 25 Aug. 1811; s. his father as 2nd bart., 24 Feb. 1869; m. 11 June, 1836, Theodosia, dau. of Gen. the Hon. Robert Meade (see CLANWILLIAM, E.), which lady d. 10 May, 1871. His lordship was raised to the Peerage 1873.

Lineage.

This family derives from Robert FitzGerald, traditionally of the house of Desmond, who passed over into Scotland during that emigration of the FitzGeralds, which laid the foundation of the several families of the Mackenzie sept in that country. He is recorded to have captured by storm the Castle of Dunskey, at Port-an-Righ, now Port Patrick, from "Walter de Currie, governor of the Castle of Wygetone, Kyrcudbricht, and Dumfres," for EDWARD I., circa 1292. Robert FitzGerald received investiture from the Scottish King on producing the evidence of his conquest. Hence, the crest borne by his descendants.

The name of Adair has been attributed to an Irish origin, but it appears the better argument that Robert FitzGerald became connected with the family "Edzeair" or Adair, long established in Galloway, and assumed the name, and this appears the more probable, as the fiefs of Kinhilt, Portpatrick, Dunmore, and many others in Galloway, were added to the possessions of this family. From Robert FitzGerald descend in direct line, unbroken, from father to son, the present Lord Waveney. The family acquired the estate of Ballymena, co. Antrim, in the 17th century. Their name is connected with the political and military history of Scotland and Ireland, and specially with the battle fields of Flodden and Dunbar, with the battle of the Boyne, where Sir Robert Adair, of Ballymena, was created, on the field, the last knight banneret—hence the dexter supporter—and with the defence of the Fort of Culmore, a dependency of Derry, against the Duke of Berwick.

Sir Robert Adair, of Kinhilt, having passed over into the co. Antrim, was mainly instrumental in the proclamation of the Solemn League and Covenant by the chaplain of Monro's army; and hence an early connection with the establishment of the Presbyterian Church in the north of Ireland.

The public and political services of this family have been recorded elsewhere.

The title assumed by the present Lord Waveney is derived from the River Waveney, dividing Norfolk from Suffolk, on which their English family residence is situated. This estate came into the possession of William Adair, Esq., late of Colehouse, Devon, the representative of the elder branch, by bequest and inheritance, from William Adair, Esq., of St. James's Square, through his nephew, the late Alexander Adair, Esq.

The territorial distinction of South Elmham refers to the adjacent district, which represents the earliest of the East Anglian Sees, and claims the site of the Minster which preceded the Capitulation of the Bishopric and Cathedral at Norwich.

WILLIAM ADAIR, of Kinhilt, co. Wigtoun, who was served heir to his father, Ninian Adair, of the same place, in 1608, settled in the co. of Antrim, in Ireland, and dying in 1626, was s. by his son,

SIR ROBERT ADAIR, of Ballymena, co. Antrim, who was served heir to his father and grandfather, in the Scotch estates, 19 Feb. 1629. He m. Jane, dau. of Archibald Edmondstone, of Duntreath, co. Stirling, and dying 1 March, 1655, was s. by his eldest son,

Lineage.

The surname of WEMYSS, like many others in Scotland, is local, and was first assumed by the proprietors of the lands anciently called WEMYSS-SHIRE, which contained all that tract of ground lying betwixt the lower part of the water of Ore and the sea. These lands got their name from the great number of caves that are on them, all along the sea coast. A cave in the old Gaelic or Celtic language, was called Vumhs; from that, these lands got the name of Vams-shire. In process of time they came to be called Wemyss-shire, which name they still retain, as will appear from several charters under the great seal.

GILLIMICHAEL, 4th Earl of Fife, great-grandson of Macduff, the 1st Earl, was witness to the foundation charter of the abbey of Holyrood House in 1128, and is mentioned in several other charters of King DAVID I. He d. 1139, leaving issue, Duncan, 5th Earl of Fife, in whom the line of those Earls was continued, and a 2nd son HUGO, direct ancestor of the family of Wemyss, who got from his father, the lands of Wemyss-shire, some lands in Lochoreshire, and in the path Kennoway, all holding of himself and his successors, Earls of Fife. He obtained also from his brother Duncan, the 5th Earl of Fife, some lands in the parish of Markinch, with the church patronage thereof. He d. in 1167, and was s. by his son HUGO, or Ego, whose son, SIR JOHN, succeeded him in all his lands. This Sir John appears to have been a man of distinguished rank and figure, and in his younger days took the appellation of JOHN OF METHKIL, or Methill, from a seaport of that name, situate near the east end of Wemyss-shire. As surnames began about this time to be frequently used in Scotland, Sir John, in the beginning of the reign of King ALEXANDER II., from his lands of Wemyss-shire assumed that of Wemyss for his surname, which his whole posterity have enjoyed ever since. Sir John de Wemyss had three sons,

MICHAEL DE WEMYSS, his heir.
Hugo de Wemyss, who is mentioned in the chartulary of Arborath, 1242.
DAVID DE WEMYSS, to whom his father gave the lands of Cambrun, in Kennoway parish, and he is designed David de Wemyss Cominus de Cambrun, in a charter of John Whyt, Prior of St. Andrew's. He married, and had issue.

Sir John de Wemyss d. between the years 1232 and 1236, and was s. by his eldest son,

MICHAEL DE WEMYSS, who confirmed his father's donation to the monastery of Soltray. He d. before 1260, leaving issue, a son and successor, SIR JOHN DE WEMYSS, whose elder son and successor,

SIR MICHAEL DE WEMYSS was sent, according to Fordun, in 1290, with Sir Michael Scott, to Norway, by the lords of the regency in Scotland, to conduct the young Queen MARGARET to her dominions: but her majesty unfortunately died upon the journey, at the Orkneys. The King of Norway conferred on Sir Michael an antique silver basin, which has been used to the present day as the font whenever an infant heir of the house of Wemyss is baptised. Sir Michael swore fealty to EDWARD I. in 1296, and he witnessed the act of settlement of the crown of Scotland by King ROBERT I., at Ayr, in 1315. From Sir Michael lineally descended

SIR JOHN WEMYSS, of Wemyss, who m. 1st, in 1574, Margaret, eldest dau. of William, Earl of Morton, but by that lady had no issue; and 2ndly, in 1581, Anne, sister of James, Earl of Moray, by whom he had, with other issue,

SIR JOHN WEMYSS, of Wemyss, who was created a Baronet 29 May, 1625; and elevated to the peerage of Scotland, as Baron Wemyss, of Elcho, 1 April, 1628. His lordship was advanced to the dignities of EARL OF WEMYSS, in the co. Fife, and Lord Elcho and Methel, 25 June, 1633. This nobleman, although indebted for his honours to King CHARLES I., took part against his royal master, and sided with the parliamentarians. This Earl was a man of a great and public spirit. He built a fine and commodious harbour at Methil, upon his own charges, and made considerable additions to his house, the Castle of Wemyss, and greatly beautified that fine seat with terraces and gardens. He d. in 1680, when the baronetcy became dormant, but the other dignities descended to his dau., established, he was enlarged, and returning to Ireland, was present in Sir John Perrott's parliament, in 1585. In 1588, he obtained a grant of the priory of Foure, county of Westmeath; and being, in 1593, appointed by commission leader of the forces raised in the county of Westmeath at the general hosting on the hill of Tara, he brought with the Nugents, his kinsmen, twenty horsemen thither; and so acceptable were his services to Queen ELIZABETH, that, by privy seal, 7 May, 1597, she ordered him a grant in fee-farm of so many manors and forfeited lands in the counties of Cavan and Longford at his election as should amount to the crown-rent of £100 a-year English. Lineage.

This noble house traces its descent in the male line to a family which is stated to have flourished in Normandy for a century and a half before the Conquest of England, and obtained its surname from having held the high and powerful office, in that principality, of Le Grosvenour (Collins' Peerage). The founder of the English Grosvenors, Gilbertle Grosvenor came over in the train of the Conqueror. So far back as the reign of Richard II., proof of the antiquity and distinction of the Grosvenors was given in the famous controversy which then arose, between Sir Richard Scrope and Sir Robert Grosvenor, as to the right to bear a particular coat of arms. This cause was tried in the court of chivalry, and the witnesses on either side were the most distinguished personages of the time. John of Gaunt, Duke of Lancaster, testified to the right of Scrope, as did Geoffrey Chaucer the poet, Holand, Duke of Exeter, the Earls of Derby and Arundel, Northumberland, Hotspur himself, and a host of others; while on the side of Grosvenor nearly all the knights and gentlemen of Cheshire and Lancashire, with several of the Abbots, bore witness that the ancestors of Sir Robert had used the same coat from time immemorial, and, more particularly, that it was borne by Gilbert Le Grosvenor at the Conquest, by Raufe Le Grosvenor at the battle of Lincoln, by Robert Le Grosvenor in the Crusade under Richard I., and by another Robert Le Grosvenor at Cressy and the other battles of Edward III. The weight of evidence was almost equal, but the court, after much hesitation, and with great reluctance, decided for Scrope. (See Burke's Rise of Great Families.)

WILLIAMS, SIR WILLIAM-ROBERT, Baronet, of Tregullow, in co. Cornwall, 2nd lieut. Devon artillery militia, b. 21 Feb. 1860; s. his father, 3 Sept. 1878.

Lineage.

The statistics of Cornwall, and many topographical and historical publications, mention this family, and give them credit for having, by their skill and enterprize, during a long connection with mining and other undertakings—some of great venture and magnitude—developed and increased the resources of Cornwall.

This family is of Welsh origin, but is recorded in the College of Arms as having settled in St. Stithians, Cornwall, as early as 1654.

JOHN WILLIAMS (son of Richard and Elizabeth Williams), born in St. Stithians Feb., 1685, settled at Burncoose House in the adjoining parish of Gwennap, 1715. He was, during a long life, actively engaged in mining enterprises, in the practical working of which he introduced many improvements. The County Adit (a large subterranean aqueduct for carrying off water from the mines, and of which great undertaking, commenced in 1748, he was the original projector), remains to the present day, a lasting memorial of the benefits conferred by his talent and energy on this the staple branch of Cornish industry. Mr. Williams d. at Burncoose in 1761, leaving by his wife, Thomasen Paynter (who was buried in the church of St. Stithians, 28 Oct. 1742), with other issue, his youngest son (his heir and executor).

MICHAEL WILLIAMS, of Burncoose, b. Aug. 1730, m. at Cury, Cornwall, 30th Nov. 1752, Susanna,* dau. of Henry Harris, of Cusgarne, Gwennap, Esq., by his wife, Elizabeth Kempthorne, and granddau. of John Harris, of Cusgarne, Esq., by his wife, Elizabeth, dau. of John Beauchamp, of Trevince, Cornwall, Esq. WILLOUGHBY DE ERESBY.

WILLOUGHBY DE ERESBY, BARONESS, (Clementina-Elizabeth Drummond-Willoughby) b. 2 Sept. 1809; m. 8 Oct. 1827, Sir GILBERT-JOHN HEATHCOTE, bart., afterwards LORD AVELAND; and was left a widow, 6 Sept. 1867, with one son and two daus. viz.,

I. GILBERT-HENRY, present LORD AVELAND (see that title).
I. Clementina-Charlotte, m. 5 April, 1869, to Capt. George Tryon, R.N., C.B.
II. Elizabeth-Sophia.

Her ladyship, having been declared by the House of Lords senior co-heir of the Barony of Willoughby de Eresby, had the abeyance terminated in her favour by Royal letters patent, in Nov. 1871. She is 21st inheritor of this most ancient dignity.

Lineage.

This is one of the very ancient baronies created by writ of summons, which pass, being heritable by heirs male or female, at different periods into different families, and sometimes remain for centuries dormant; for in the instance of there being no male heir, but several female, the barony does not devolve upon the eldest dau., but upon all conjointly, and cannot, consequently, be inherited until there be a single heir to the whole, without the especial interference of the crown.

The lordship of Eresby, which constituted the head of this barony, was settled by WILLIAM THE CONQUEROR, with other manors, upon

WALTER DE BEC, one of his companions in arms, who m. Agnes, dau. and heiress of Hugh, son of Pinco, Lord of Tatshall, in the co. Lincoln, and was s. by his eldest son,

HENRY DE BEC, of Eresby, in the co. Lincoln, whose son and heir,

WALTER BEKE, m. Eva, niece and heiress of Walter de Grey, archbishop of York, and was s. by his eldest son,

HENRY BEKE, who m. Hawise, sister of Thomas de Muleton, and was s. by his son,

WALTER BEKE, who left three sons,

JOHN, of whom presently.
Anthony, bishop of Durham, and patriarch of Jerusalem (for a more detailed narrative of this celebrated prelate and the family of Bec, see BURKE'S Extinct and Dormant Peerage).
Thomas, lord bishop of St. David's.

The eldest son and heir,

JOHN BEKE, had licence of King EDWARD I., in the 4th year of that monarch's reign, to make a castle of his manor-house at Eresby, and was summoned to parliament amongst the barons of the realm, in the 23rd and 24th of the same reign; dying in seven years afterwards, his lordship left issue by his wife, Sarah, dau. of Thomas, Lord Furnival,

WALTER, his son and heir, Lord of Eresby, who survived his father but a few years, and d. issueless; when the barony of Bec of Eresby fell into abeyance, as it still continues.
Alice.
Margaret, m. to Richard de Harcourt.

ALICE BEKE, the eldest dau. and one of the co-heiresses of her brother, m.

SIR WILLIAM DE WILLOUGHBY, Knt., great-grandson of Ralph de Willoughby, lord of the manor of Willoughby, in the co. Lincoln; which Sir William de Willoughby, 54 HENRY III., was signed with the cross, together with many other persons of the first rank, who accompanied that monarch's son, Prince EDWARD, into the Holy Land. He d. in 1306, and was s. by his eldest son,

ROBERT WILLOUGHBY, who, upon the decease of Anthony Beke, bishop of Durham, s. as next heir to that prelate. This Robert Willoughby, being actively engaged in the French and Scottish wars of King EDWARD I., was summoned to parliament among the barons of the realm, 7 EDWARD II. (26 July, 1313), as LORD WILLOUGHBY DE ERESBY, and dying in three years afterwards, was s. by his son (by Margaret, dau. of Edmund, Lord Deincourt),

JOHN WILLOUGHBY, then a minor, who was committed to the wardship of William, Lord Zouch, of Harringworth, for which that nobleman paid a thousand marks to the king. In 20 EDWARD II., this John Willoughby received the honour of knighthood, by bathing, &c., having all the necessary appendages out of the king's wardrobe, and in 1 EDWARD III., making proof of his age, had livery of his lands, and was summoned to parliament from 27 Jan. 1332, to 10 March, 1349. His lordship subsequently distinguished himself in the Scottish wars, and was one of the principal commanders at the battle of Crécy. He m. Joan, dau. and heiress of Sir Thomas Rosceline, Knt., and was s. by his eldest son,

JOHN, 3rd Lord Willoughby de Eresby. This nobleman was engaged in the wars of Gascony, 29 EDWARD III., and in the next year participated in the glory of Poictiers. His lordship m. Cicely, dau. of Robert de Ufford, Earl of Suffolk, and dying 46 EDWARD III., was s. by his son,

ROBERT, 4th baron, who inherited, as nephew and one of the co-heirs of William de Ufford, Earl of Suffolk, upon the decease of that nobleman, 5 RICHARD II.; and in four years afterwards, his lordship accompanied John of Gaunt, Duke of Lancaster, into Spain, for the recovery of the inheritance of Constance, his duchess, eldest dau. and co-heiress of Peter, King of Castile. Lord Willoughby m. 1st, Alice, elder dau. of Sir William Skipwith, Knt., lord chief-baron of the Exchequer, temp. EDWARD III., by whom he had

II. Robert.
III. Thomas, ancestor of the Lords Willoughby de Broke (see that dignity).
IV. John, ancestor of the Willoughbys, Baronets, of Baldon House, Oxon.
V. Bryan.

His lordship m. 2ndly, Margery, dau. of William, Lord Zouch, of Harringworth, but had no issue; and 3rdly, Elizabeth, dau. and heiress of William, Lord Latimer, and widow of John Nevil, Lord Raby, but it does not appear that he had any other issue. He d. 13 RICHARD II., and was s. by his eldest son,

WILLIAM, 5th baron. This nobleman was one of the peers in the parliament of 22 RICHARD II., when that monarch made a formal resignation of his royal dignity. His lordship m. 1st, Lucy, dau. of Roger, Lord Strange of Knockyn, by whom he had (with four daus.),

ROBERT, his successor.
Thomas (Sir), a celebrated warrior, who received the honour of knighthood for his valour in the field. He m. Joan, dau. and co-heir of Sir Richard Arundell, Knt., and was s. by his elder son, ROBERT (Sir), who was also found to be next heir male to his uncle, ROBERT, Lord Willoughby, 30 HENRY VI. He m. Cicely, 2nd dau. of Leo, Lord Welles, and dying 5 EDWARD IV., was s. by his elder son, ROBERT (Sir), who d. in two years afterwards, and was s. by his brother, CHRISTOPHER (Sir), who m. Margaret, dau. of Sir William Jenney, of Knottshall, Suffolk, and had issue, WILLIAM, his successor, of whom hereafter, as 9th LORD WILLOUGHBY; Christopher, from whom the Lords Willoughby of Parham derived; and Thomas, ancestor of Lord Middleton.

Lord Willoughby m. 2ndly, Joan, dau. of Thomas Holland, Earl of Kent (by Joan, surnamed the Fair Maid of Kent, only dau. of Edmund of Woodstock, Earl of Kent, son of King EDWARD II.), and widow of Edmund of Langley, Duke of York, son of King EDWARD III. (Her ladyship, after Lord Willoughby's decease, m. a 3rd husband, Henry, Lord Scrope; and a 4th, Henry Bromflete, Lord Vesey). Lord Willoughby de Eresby d. in the 11th of HENRY IV., and was s. by his elder son,

ROBERT, 6th baron. This nobleman took a distinguished part in the French wars of HENRY V., and participated in the triumph of Agincourt. He was subsequently at the storming of the castle of Caen, and at the protracted siege of Rouen. In the reign of HENRY VI., he shared the laurels of Vernoil; and with Sir John Fastolf, soon afterwards gallantly defeated a projected surprise of Charles de Villiers. For all these eminent service his lordship was created Lord Willoughby of Monblay and Beaumesguil and Earl of Vendosme and Beaumont, and installed a knight of the most noble order of the Garter. His lordship m. 1st, Elizabeth, youngest dau. of John Montacute Earl of Salisbury, by whom he had an only dau., JOAN. He m. 2ndly, Maud, dau. of Sir Richard Stanhope, Knt., and cousin and co-heiress of Ralph, Lord Cromwell of Tatshall, but had no other issue. His lordship dying in the 30th of HENRY VI., the honours acquired by himself expired, while the barony devolved upon his only dau. and heiress,

JOAN WILLOUGHBY, who m.

SIR RICHARD WELLES, Knt., who bore in her right the title of Lord Willoughby de Eresby, and was summoned to parliament as 7th baron, in 1455. His lordship was son of Leo, 6th baron Welles, who fell in one of the conflicts between the houses of York and Lancaster, and was attainted in 1461. Lord Willoughby obtained a full restoration, however, in blood and honours in 1468; but fell a victim afterwards himself to the vibrations of fortune between the Red and White Roses, and was beheaded in 1469, when he was s. by his only son,

ROBERT, 8th Lord Welles and 8th Lord Willoughby; who coming into immediate conflict with the Yorkists, under King EDWARD IV., at Stamford, and suffering a signal defeat, was taken prisoner and beheaded (refer to BURKE'S Extinct Peerage) The baronies then devolved upon the last lord's only sister and heiress, JOANE WELLES, who m.

RICHARD HASTINGS, and he was summoned to parliament as Baron Welles; but dying without issue, in 1503, and his lady in three years afterwards, the ancient Barony of Willoughby reverted to her ladyship's kinsman (refer to Sir Thomas Willoughby, younger son of WILLIAM, 5th baron),

WILLIAM WILLOUGHBY, as 9th baron. This nobleman d. in 1525, and was s. by his only dau. (by his 2nd wife, the Lady Mary Salines),

KATHERINE, Baroness Willoughby de Eresby. Her ladyship m. twice; 1st, Charles Brandon, Duke of Suffolk, brother-in-law of King HENRY VIII., by whom she had two sons, Henry and Charles, who both d. in minority. She m. 2ndly, Richard Bertie, Esq., by whom she had a son and heir Peregrine. Her grace the Duchess of Suffolk d. in 1580, when her son,

PEREGRINE BERTIE, claimed the ancient barony, and was summoned to parliament as 10th Lord Willoughby de Eresby, 16 Jan. 1581. His lordship m. Lady Mary Vere, dau. of John, 16th Earl of Oxford, and sister and heiress of Edward, 17th Earl of Oxford, lord-high-chamberlain of England, by whom he had five sons and a dau., Catherine, who m. Sir Lewis Watson, of Rockingham Castle, co. Northampton, subsequently created Lord Rockingham. Lord Willoughby d. in 1601, and was s. by his eldest son,

ROBERT, 11th baron, who claimed the Earldom of Oxford and the great chamberlainship of England in right of his mother, but succeeded in establishing his pretensions to the chamberlainship only; he was, however, created Earl of Lindsey, 22 Nov. 1626. In 1630, his lordship was installed a knight of the Garter; and at the breaking out of the civil war was nominated commander-in-chief of the king's forces. The Barony of Willoughby de Eresby merged in this Earldom of Lindsey and the Dukedom of Ancaster, to which honour the 4th earl was elevated, until the demise of Robert, 4th duke, without issue, in 1779 (for intermediate descent refer to LINDSEY, E.), when the dukedom of Ancaster and marquessate and earldom of Lindsey reverted to his grace's uncle, the Hon. Brownlow Bertie; and at that nobleman's decease, in 1809, the dukedom and marquessate became extinct, while the earldom of Lindsey devolved on his kinsman, Gen. Albemarle Bertie (see LINDSEY, E.); and the ancient Barony of Willoughby de Eresby fell into abeyance between his grace's sisters and heiresses,*

PRISCILLA-BARBARA-ELIZABETH, the wife of Sir Peter Burrell, Bart., 1st Baron Gwydyr; and

GEORGIANA-CHARLOTTE, the wife of George-James, 1st Marquess of Cholmondeley;

And it so remained until the abeyance was terminated by the crown, 18 March, 1780, in favour of the elder co-heir,

Lineage.

The name of Wylimot, or Wilmot, is very ancient in England. Speed mentions Wilmot, a nobleman of Sussex in the time of King ETHELRED. The family before us was settled antecedently to the Conquest in Nottinghamshire, from whence it removed into the co. Derby in 1539, where, according to Sir William Dugdale, it flourished in great repute.

JOHN WILMOT, Esq. of Spondon, purchasing the estate of Chaddesden, in Derbyshire, made it the place of his residence. From this John sprang

ROBERT WYLMOT, Esq. of Chaddesden, who m. Dorothea, dau. of Lawrence Shrigley, co Chester, and had issue, EDWARD; and NICHOLAS, ancestor of the WILMOTS of Osmaston. Mr. Wylmot was s. by his elder son,

THE REV. EDWARD WYLMOT, D.D., father of

EDWARD WILMOT, Esq. of Chaddesden who m. in 1667, Susanna, 2nd dau. of Richard Coke, Esq. of Trusley, and had three sons,

The family represented by this peerage and the house of Cholmondeley derive from a common progenitor, namely,

ROBERT FITZHUGH, of Malpas, in Cheshire, one of the barons of Hugh Lupus, Earl of Chester, temp. WILLIAM the CONQUEROR. (See EGERTON of Egerton and Oulton, Bart.)

SIR THOMAS EGERTON, of Egerton and Oulton, 7th baronet (for preceding details, see EGERTON, Bart.), was elevated to the peerage, 15 May, 1784, by the title of *Baron Grey de Wilton, of Wilton Castle, in the co. II. Henry-William-Montagu, b. 30 Oct. 1862.

I. Lilian.

His lordship is premier Marquess of England.

Lineage.

This family is said by Collins to derive its surname from the lordship of Paulet, in Somersetshire, whereof its progenitors Hercules, Lord of Tournon, in Picardy, became proprietor, upon settling in England, in the reign of HENRY I. But, by Collison's history of that county, it appears that Walter de Dowai owned this lordship in the time of the CONQUEROR, and that from him it descended to the Paganels, Fitzhardings, Gaunts, and Gournays. It is certain, however, that the Paulets enjoyed, from a very early period, a manor in this parish, and hence doubtless took their surname.

SIR JOHN PAULET, Knt., m. Elizabeth, dau, and heiress of Sir John Creedy, of Creedy, and dying in 1378, left two sons, Sir Thomas, the elder, progenitor of the Earls Poulett; and

WILLIAM PAULET (the younger son), of Melcomb Paulet, in Somersetshire, serjeant-at-law, from whom sprang the extinct ducal house of Bolton, and

SIR WILLIAM PAULET, great-grandson of John Paulet, Esq., m. Constance de Poynings, one of the co-heiresses of her brother Sir Thomas de Poynings, Lord St. John of Basing (at the decease of which nobleman, the Barony of St. John of Basing and Poynings fell into abeyance, (see BURKE'S Extinct Peerage). This Sir William enjoying the confidence of King HENRY VIII., was elevated by that monarch to the peerage, 9 March, 1538-9, as Baron St. John of Basing, and at his Majesty's decease was appointed one of the executors to his will Lord St. John continuing a leading political character, was created in the ensuing reign, 12 Jan 1549-50, Earl of Wiltshire, and 12 Oct. 1551, MARQUESS OF WINCHESTER. He was installed a knight of the Garter, and held the important office of Lord-Treasurer of England during the reigns of EDWARD VI, and Queens MARY and ELIZABETH. The Marquess being asked how he had contrived to preserve the treasurership through so long a series of changeable years, replied, "By being a willow, not an oak." This nobleman erected the beautiful and magnificent seat called Basing, in the co. Southampton. His lordship m. Elizabeth, dau. of Alderman Sir William Capel, Knt of the city of London; and dying at the advanced age of ninety-seven, 10 March, 1572, was s. by his eldest son,

JOHN, 2nd marquess; who had been summoned to parliament in the lifetime of his father, as Lord St. John, and by that title was one of the peers who sat, 10 Jan. 1571-2, on the trial of Thomas Howard, Duke of Norfolk. His lordship m. 1st, Elizabeth, eldest dau. and co-heiress of Robert Willoughby, Lord Broke, by whom he had four sons, and two daus.; and, 2ndly, Winifred, dau. of Sir John Burgess, Knt., lord-mayor of London, and widow of Sir Robert Sackville, Knt., but had no other issue. He d. 4 Nov. 1576, and was s. by his eldest son.

WILLIAM, 3rd marquess; who had been summoned to parliament in the lifetime of his father, as Lord St. John of Basing This nobleman was a man of letters, and was enrolled among the poets of his day. His lordship m. one of the daus. of William, Lord Howard of Effingham; and dying 24 Nov. 1598, was s. by his only son,

WILLIAM, 4th marquess. This nobleman entertained Queen ELIZABETH most magnificently at Basing, during one of her majesty's progresses, by which, and other expenses, he involved himself in pecuniary difficulties. His lordship m. Lucy, dau. of Sir Thomas Cecil, Earl of Exeter, by whom he had six sons, the second surviving of whom,

HENRY, who was seated at Amport, co. Hants, m. Lucy, dau. of Sir George Philpot, of Thruxton, Hampshire, and was s. in 1672 by his son FRANCIS, of Amport This gentleman m. Elizabeth, dau. and heiress of Sir Richard Norton, of Rotherfield, Hants, and was s. in 1696, by his only son, NORTON, who m. Jane, dau. of Sir Charles Worsley, of Droxford, and had eight sons; the youngest, but longest survivor of whom, GEORGE PAULET, Esq., succeeded as 12th Marquess of Winchester.

The marquess d. in Feb. 1628, and was s. by his eldest surviving son, JOHN, 5th marquess; who, at the commencement of the civil wars, held Basing for KING CHARLES as long as a single stone of the noble mansion remained; but the house, after a protracted siege, falling by storm into the hands of the Parliamentarians, was burnt to the ground, and the marquess's property, in plate, jewels, &c., destroyed to the amount of £200,000. His lordship had, however, the satisfaction of living to witness the restoration of the monarchy. He d. in 1674, and was buried at Englefield, where a beautiful inscription, by Dryden, appears upon his monument. He had the spleen to an high degree, and affected an extravagant behaviour; for many weeks he would not open his mouth till such an hour of the day when he thought the air was pure. He changed the day into night, and often hunted by torchlight, and took all sorts of liberties to himself, many of which were very disagreeable to those about him. He was a man of profuse expense, and of almost ravenous avarice to support that; and though he was much hated, yet he carried matters before him with such authority and success, that he was in all respects the great riddle of the age." Lineage.

It is the opinion of Sir William Dugdale, that this family is descended from a common ancestor with the Herberts, Earls of Pembroke; namely, Henry Fitz-Herbert, chamberlain to King HENRY I.; and Leland says: "The Finches, that be now, say that their proper name is Herbert, and that with marriage of the Finche's heir, they took Finche's name. One Vincent Finch, in HENRY IV.'s days, recovered by a suit the manor of ——, by Winchilsea." And in an old inscription in Braborne church, the name is written Herbert, alias Finch.

WILLIAM FINCH, Esq. of Netherfield, co. Sussex (lineally descended from Vincent Herbert, otherwise Finch, of Netherfield, who lived there about the close of EDWARD II.'s reign), was sheriff of Sussex and Surrey in the 8th of King HENRY VI. Lineage.

The family of Worsley, or De Workesley, as it was anciently written, is of high antiquity, being descended it is stated in an old family record from Sir Elias de Workesley, lord of the manor of Workesley (now Worsley, about seven miles from Manchester), at the time of William the Conqueror. The Worsleys continued to hold large possessions in Lancashire till the reign of James I. Prior to this it is certain the family of whom we are now treating were in possession of the Worsley estates, and resident at Worsley Hall in the 3rd of Henry VIII. (1507), when Sir James Worsley, a younger son of Robert Worsley, of Worsley Hall, m. Anne, heiress of Sir John Leigh, of Moer, in Dorsetshire, and their descendant fell in for the lease of Appuldercombe Priory, in the Isle of Wight, to which estate Robert Worsley, succeeded about the year 1590. Their last male heir, Sir Richard Worsley, Bart. of Appuldercombe, d. in 1805. (See Burke's Extinct Baronetage.) The family of whom we treat, settled at Hovingham in Yorkshire, were of the old Lancashire stock, and retained, and still enjoy, certain manorial rights, and other quit, and chief rents, over the several manors and uninclosed lands, so long held by their ancestors in the county of Lancaster.

The manor of Wrottesley formed one of the numerous lordships bestowed by the CONQUEROR upon Robert de Stafford, his kinsman. In 1088, Robert gave Wrottesley and Livington in free alms to Walter the abbott, and monastery of Evesham. Between 1160 and 1167, the Abbot Adam enfeoffed Simon, the younger son of William de Coctune, with the same manors of Wrottesley and Livintune, for which Simon released to the Abbot all claim to Morton and other lands, in Worcestershire. This Simon was a younger brother of Ralph de Coctune or Coughton, in Warwickshire, a military tenant of the abbots of Evesham, and third in descent from Ralph, the brother of Walter, the first Norman abbot of that house. On the pipe-roll of the Exchequer of 1167, Simon is returned as having paid a fine of half a mark, set upon Wrottesley, by the justiciaries of the forest. For his services in the cause of the Yorkists, the king granted to him considerable possessions, which had formed part of the forfeited estates of the Earl of Wilts. In 1471, when Richard Neville restored HENRY VI. to the throne, Sir Walter held Calais as the Earl's lieutenant, and after the death of the latter upon the field of Barnet, surrendered the fortress to King EDWARD IV., upon condition that he and the garrison should receive a full pardon for all offences. Family of Wynn.

To the House of Gwydir, now represented maternally in one of its branches by the WILLIAMS-WYNNS of Wynnstay, must be conceded the first rank in Cambrian genealogy. This eminent family deduces male descent through their immediate ancestor, Rhodri, Lord of Anglesey, younger son of Owen Gwynedd, Prince of North Wales, from Anarawd, King of North Wales, eldest son of Rhodri Mawr, King of Wales. This last monarch, the descendant of a long line of regal ancestors succeeded to the crown of Powys on the demise, in 843, of his father, Mervyn Vrych, King of Powys, and by inheritance and marriage acquired the kingdoms of North Wales and South Wales. He was slain A.D. 876, and left, by Angharad his wife, sister and heiress of Gwgan ap Meuric, Lord of Cardigan, three sons,

I. ANARAWD AP RHODRI MAWR, of whose line we have to treat
II. Cadell ap Rhodri Mawr, King of South Wales, ancestor of the sovereigns of South Wales.
III. Mervyn ap Rhodri Mawr, King of Powys, who d. A.D. 900; progenitor of the Sovereigns of Powys.

The eldest son,

ANARAWD AP RHODRI MAWR, King of North Wales, whose palace was at Aberfraw, in Anglesey, d. in 913, leaving issue, I. IDWAL VACH AP ANARAWD; and, II. Ellis ap Anarawd slain in 940 with his brother Idwal. Anarawd was s. by his elder son,

IDWAL VOEL, King of North Wales, who was slain with his brother Elis, in 940, fighting against the Anglo-Danes. By his cousin, Avandreg, dau. of Mervyn, King of Powys, Idwal left, with other issue, an elder son,

MEURIC AP IDWAL VOEL, who was taken prisoner in the defeat sustained in 977, and deprived of his eyes by Iago, who suffered him to languish in prison, where he d. leaving a son,

IDWAL AP MEURIC, who was in 992 raised by the people to his hereditary throne of North Wales, of which he had been dispossessed by Meredyth ap Owen, King of Powys. In the following year, Swane, a Danish chieftain, landed in North Wales; and Idwal in resisting him was slain. His only son,

IAGO AP IDWAL, excluded from the throne by Llewelyn ap Seisyllt, husband of Angharad, Queen of Powys, was restored in 1021, on the decease of that Prince. Iago ap Idwal, who was slain in 1037, in a battle fought between him and Griffith, King of Powys, son of Llewelyn ap Seisyllt, left an only son, CYNAN AP IAGO, excluded from the throne by Griffith ap Llewelyn, who also usurped the kingdom of South Wales, Cynan ap Iago, after two gallant and unsuccessful attempts to recover his crown, d. leaving an eldest son.

GRIFFITH AP CYNAN, who, after several ineffectual endeavours to reinstate himself in his dominions, which had been usurped by Trahaern ap Caradoc, formed an alliance in 1079 with Rhys ap Tewdwr, Prince of North Wales, for the vindication of the rightful succession. The two princes met Trahaern on the mountain of Carno, where an action ensued, which terminated in the defeat and death of the usurper, and the restoration of Griffiths and Rhys. Griffith ap Cynan bore as his ensigns, gu., three lions, passant, in pale, arg., armed, az. He d. in 1136, at the age of eighty-two, and lies buried on the south side of the great altar in the cathedral of Bangor, having reigned fifty-seven years. This monarch m. Angharad, dau. of Owen ap Edwin, Lord of Tegaingl (see BURKE's Landed Gentry, OWEN of Bettws), and had issue, I. OWEN GWYNEDD; II. Cadwalader ap Griffith, Lord of Caerdigan, who d. 1172, a distinguished participator in the events of his times. Griffith ap Cynan was s. in the throne by his eldest son,

OWEN GWYNEDD AP GRIFFITH, Prince of North Wales, a chivalrous and distinguished monarch, who, after a popular reign of thirty-two years, d. in Dec. 1169, and was buried at Bangor, Owen Gwynedd (who bore, Vert, three eagles displayed, in fesse, or) m. twice; 1st, Gwladys, dau. of Llowarch ap Trahaearn, Lord of Pembroke, and was, by her, father of

IORWERTH DRWYNDWN AP OWEN GWYNEDD; excluded from the throne, first by his illegitimate brother Howel, and subsequently by his brother David, son of Owen Gwynedd, by his second marriage. Iorwerth, who bore, Sable, a lion, rampant, within a bordure, engrailed, or, d. at Pennant Mehangell, in Montgomeryshire; he m. the Princess Margaret, dau. of Madoc, Prince of Powys, and was father of an only son,

LLEWELYN AP IORWERTH, surnamed The Great, who, in 1194, demanded and obtained, without struggle, his hereditary crown of North Wales from his uncle David ap Owen Gwynedd. This monarch, after an eventful reign of fifty-six years, d. in 1240, and was buried in the abbey of Conway. His grandson,

LLEWELYN AP GRIFFITH, the last native Sovereign Prince of Wales recognised by the English monarchs, was slain at Builth, in the valley of the Wye, 11 Dec. 1282

The family of Bishopp deduces its pedigree from

SPIRITUAL LORDS.

Archbishops and Bishops bear the arms of their Sees impaled with their own family arms, without crest or motto, and with a mitre over the shield. The mitre of both Archbishops and Bishops is (with the exception of the mitre of the Bishop of Durham) exactly the same. It is a high golden cap, enriched with jewels, pointed and divided at the top, with fringed pendants hanging from the lower part: each top is surmounted by a cross, of which cross the more ancient and probably more correct form is as in the above engraving; the present usual form of the cross, however, is that of a cross-pattée. The mitre of the Bishop of Durham differs from that of the other Prelates in being encircled with a ducal coronet. As to the designation and rank of Archbishops and Bishops, see ante, INTRODUCTION.

Lineage.

THOMAS DIMSDALE, M.D., of The Priory, in the co. of Hertford, b. 29 May, 1712, member for the borough of Hertford in two successive parliaments, was grandson of Robert Dimsdale, who accompanied William Penn to America in 1684, and 4th son of Sir John Dimsdale, Knt. of Theydon Gernon, in Essex, by Susanna, dau. of Thomas Bowyer, Esq. of Halbury Hall, Herts. Dr. Dimsdale, in 1745, made a voluntary and gratuitous offer of his services as assistant to the medical staff of the army sent to the north, under the command of the Duke of Cumberland, to suppress the Scotch rebellion; and he continued in the service until after the surrender of Carlisle to the king's forces, when he received the thanks of his royal highness the commander-in-chief. The ample fortune Dr. Dimsdale enjoyed had induced him to retire for some years from the practice of his profession, when his high reputation in the art of inoculating for the small-pox having reached the Empress CATHERINE of Russia, he was especially invited, in 1762, by her majesty to the Court of St. Petersburg, for the purpose of inoculating herself and the grand duke, her son, which invitation he accepted and acquitted himself so much to the satisfaction of his imperial patients, that her majesty rewarded his services with the appointment of actual councillor of state, and physician to her imperial majesty, with an annuity of £500 per annum, conferring upon him, at the same time, a Barony of the Russian empire, with the title of "Honourable" attached, to be borne by him and the eldest of his lawful descendants in succession. She likewise gave him the sum of £10,000 sterling, with £2,000 for the expenses of his journey, and presented him with a miniature of herself and the grand duke, richly set with diamonds. His 2nd son, Nathaniel, who had accompanied him to the Russian Court, had conferred upon him, at the same time, a similar dignity, with similar limitations. Her imperial majesty was further pleased to grant to both father and son, and their lawful descendants, permission to add to their family arms, a wing of the displayed black eagle of the Russian imperial coat, on a gold shield placed in the centre, with the usual helmet over the shield, surmounted by the baron's coronet. A patent in accordance was ordered by the empress to be made out, embellished with her majesty's portrait and other splendid ornaments, and delivered to the Barons Dimsdale. Baron Dimsdale m. 1st, Mary, only child of Nathaniel Brassey, Esq. of Radford House, Herts, but by that lady, who d. in 1744, had no issue. The title of Baron and Magnat was conferred on this family by letters patent bearing the sign-manual of his Majesty LEOPOLD, Emperor of Germany, under the great seal of the kingdom of Hungary, given at Vienna, the 8th April, 1704, on Daniel-John de Hochepied, and was confirmed to the late Baron and to his family, by royal licence, dated at Carlton House, London, 27 Sept. 1819.

This family, according to the aforesaid royal diploma, in which are cited certain documents dated in the year 1210, had been at that period long established in Belgium, and is supposed, by Jean le Carpenter, in his History, to have been a branch of the family of Boistrencourt, in the Cambresis, where, in the year 1100, it had been much distinguished, and had attained to the highest and most conspicuous stations of dignity, civil as well as ecclesiastical.

NICHOLAS DE HOCHEPIED, in the year 1575, was appointed minister and ambassador from the states-general of Holland, to several electors and potentates in Germany.

DANIEL-JOHN DE HOCHEPIED, being minister from the states general of Holland at the Ottoman Porte in 1698, distinguished himself in the negotiations which terminated in the peace of Carlowitz, in Jan. 1699; and having likewise by his virtues and influence obtained the liberation of many Christian slaves from Turkish servitude, the Emperor LEOPOLD conferred upon him and his descendants, male and emale, the title of Baron and Magnat. ANDREA-FRANCIS-ALBERT-COCHRANE (Count), b. 13 June, 1874.
Louisa-Evelyne-Selina-Winton-Northwick (Countess for life).

Lineage.

The Metaxa family originally came from Cephalonia, one of the Ionian Islands, and having been elevated to the dignity of Counts by the Venetian Republic, had, for 200 years, been the most powerful and influential house in the island.

When the war of Greek independence broke out, Count Andrea (after whom Count Jean Baptiste's eldest son is named) was among the first to join the national movement, and in 1821, appeared at the head of a body of troops, raised at his own expense. To enable him to do this, he sold his patrimony and broke up his quiet home in order to expose his life to the gallant struggle in which he fought side by side with the deliverers of Greece. His disinterested conduct and military success, especially in the affairs of 1822, gained for him the esteem and confidence of the revolutionary chiefs, and in the same year he was deputed by the provisional government to represent them in the Congress at Verona. Under Capo d'Istria and his brother the Count Augustine, his influence increased so much, that on the latter's resignation, he was chosen to the vacant place in the Administrative Commission of the Seven, from 1832 to 1833. Under the Bavarian rule he served his country in foreign missions; in 1856 was appointed minister at Constantinople, which post he occupied until the rupture of diplomatic relations between Turkey and Greece, in consequence of the events that took place in Epirus and Thessaly.

JEAN-BAPTISTE METAXA, was a Count of the powerful Venetian Republic. This title (with many privileges) was conferred upon Capt Anzolo Metaxà and all his male descendants in perpetuum (by Franciscus Mauriceno), on 12 July, 1691, for his eminent and valorous military achievements and political services, rendered to the Venetian Empire, in the Ionian Islands, Rumelia and Livadia, having raised several thousand men, at his personal expense, to support the Venetian Empire. The family of Metaxà's also distinguished themselves in favour of the freedom of Greece in 1821, and up to the present period hold important appointments under the government. The title of "Counts," according to the original grant of the Venetian Empire, was recognized by the British Government, in the United States of the Ionian Islands, on 3 June, 1840.

This title of Count descends by inheritance; even the daughters of a count have the right to assume the title of Countess, but it is not inherited by their descendants.

Jean-Baptiste Count Metaxà, became naturalized on 30 Nov. 1846. He was b. 24 May, 1806; m. 30 Oct. 1841, Selina-Jane-Rancliffe, only surviving child of the late Captain Richard Barrow, 1st King's dragoon-guards, granddau. of the late Sir Thomas Parkyns, Bart. of Bunny Park, co Notts, cousin of the late Lord Rancliffe and the Princess de Polignac, and by her (who d. 6 Feb. 1869) had issue,

DE SALIS.

JOHN-FRANCIS-CHARLES FANE DE SALIS, a Count of the Germanic or Holy Roman Empire, b. 19 July, 1864; s. his father, 7 Aug. 1871.

Lineage

This family is found amongst the most ancient of Germany. So far back as the 9th century, it is stated to have been settled at Castel Mar (the Roman Castellum Murum), a stronghold of feudal times, situated in the valley of the Maira, on the Italian frontier of the republic of the Grisons. Halto, Archbishop of Mentz, visited this place in the year 913, on his journey to Rome, and mentions in his travels that it was then held by two brothers, Rodolph and Gubertus à Salice, who, he adds, entertained him hospitably in their castle, and when he departed, entrusted him with a sum of money, which they requested he would present to his Holiness Pope ANASTASIUS III. as an offering. The house of De Salis directed for several centuries the political affairs, and filled the highest offices of the state in the republic of the Grisons; while some of its members, seeking a wider sphere of action, achieved historical renown in the services of Austria and France. Gubertus de Salis was grand master of the order of St. John of Jerusalem, anno 1168. The early alliances of De Salis connect its pedigree with the house of Hapsburgh, the Duke of Carinthia, and CHARLEMAGNE. The branch of which we are more immediately about to treat, although settled in England since the beginning of the last century, continued to the time of the French Revolution in possession of large domains in the valley of the Maira, as well as of the principalities, or imperial fiefs, of Widnau and Obereich, situated on the southern side of the lake of Constance. Those fiefs were held immediately under the Germanic empire, and conferred the sovereign rights of supreme judicature, coinage of money, &c., on their seigneurs or lords. The invasion of this territory, in 1802, by the French under Massena, brought with it a proscription of the nobles, a confiscation of their property, and an entire abolition of all seignorial rights. A considerable portion of the confiscated estates of the Anglo de Salis was restored in 1814, through the influence of the British minister, Viscount Castlereagh, at the Congress of Vienna. His excellency, Count John de Salis (of whom hereafter), pursuant to a family arrangement, now enjoys the foreign property, which includes the Castle of Obereich on the lake of Constance, and the château of Bondo, in the valley of the Maira, immediately adjoining the ruins of the old family seat, Castel Mar. His Excellency,

PETER DE SALIS, came over to England in the year 1709, as envoy and minister-plenipotentiary from JOSEPH I., Emperor of Germany, to Queen ANNE; and on the 12th March, 1748, he was created by the Emperor FRANCIS a Count of the Germanic or Holy Roman Empire, with remainder to his issue male. Lineage.

The family of PINON DU CLOS DE VALMER, formerly Marquises de St. Georges, Comtes de Villeneuve, Vicomtes de Pinon, Quincy, and Valmer, and Barons de Pinon and de Courcy, is one of great antiquity and distinction in France, and has produced a great number of eminent descendants. The family was early divided into several branches.

GUILLAUME DE PINON, first Capitoul of Toulouse, in 1421, belonged to the branch settled in Languedoc: the branch of Vermandois subdivided into several distinct lines, became established at Paris towards the end of the 14th century, and thence spread into Berry, Champagne, and Touraine. Of this branch was the celebrated LAURENCE PINON, b. at Sens in 1365, eventually Prior of the Dominicans there, Confessor of Philip the Good, Duke of Burgundy; and Bishop successively of Bethlehem and Auxerre. He d. 1449. The last male descendant of this line, Anne-Louis Pinon, Vicomte Quincy, Seigneur de la Grange Batellière, was

"Président à Mortier au Parlement de Paris:" his only child and heiress, Marie-Louise-Camille-Rosalie Pinon, m. Henri-François le Grand, Baron de Vaux. The 2nd branch was that of Anne-Louis Pinon, Marquis de St. Georges, a captain of cavalry, and Chevalier of St. Louis, whose only son d. without issue, having had two sisters, Marie-Louise-Nathalie, wife of Armand, Comte de Malherbe, and Marie-Louise-Léonie, wife of Charles Sons François de Maeé de Gastines.

The 3rd branch, which had the title of Vicomte Pinon, terminated in two heiresses, the daus. of Arsène-Théodore, Vicomte Pinon, viz., Marie Pinon, m. to Ogier de Baulny, and Clothilde, m. to the Baron d'Auberlin.

The 4th branch, the only one existing in the male line, that of the Vicomte de Valmer, descends from Simon Pinon, Seigneur de St. Simon, and Monthuchet, 4th son of Jacques Pinon, Chevalier, Seigneur d'Oncy and de Vitry, a distinguished litterateur, who died, "doyen du Parlement de Paris" in 1641. This

Simon Pinon, Seigneur de St. Simon and Monthuchet, was Counsellor in the Parliament of Paris in 1636, and Commissioner of Requests of the Palace. He m. in 1637, Catherine le Noir, and had two sons and a dau., Catherine, m. 1674, to Charles Boucher d'Orsay. This Seigneiorie was created a Vicomtcy, in 1646. The elder son,

BERNARD PINON, Seigneur de Monthuchet, Counsellor in the Parliament of Paris, m. 1676, Francoise Pallu, and had four sons, who all d. without male issue, except the second, Bernard Louis Pinon, Seigneur du Clos, who m. about 1720 Marguerite, dau. of Jean Baptiste le Brun, Counsellor, of the City of Paris, and had a son, Nicholas-Denis Pinon, Seigneur du Clos, de Valmer, "Directeur Général des Vingtiémes" of the Province of Champagne, who m. about 1765 Jeanne le Glaive, and had, Claude Henri Pinon du Clos, who d. s. p., JEAN BAPTISTE-CHARLES, of whom we treat; and Amable Guy Pinon de St. Aubin, Canon de St. Geneviéve. The 2nd son,

JEAN-BAPTISTE-CHARLES PINON, DU CLOS, DE VALMER, b. 1763, captain in the French Royal Navy, Chevalier Royal de la Legion d'Honneur, &c., m. Marguerite-Henriette-Camille Perrot, of the ancient family of de Perrot of Brittany, and d. in 1835, having had issue a son, AUGUSTIN-DENIS PINON DU CLOS, DE VALMER, b. 1795, a captain in the Lanciers de la Garde Royale de Charles X., Chevalier de la Légion d'Honneur, Croix de St. Helene, and other orders of knighthood; President of the "Société Protectrie des Animaux," of which society he was one of the founders in France, mayor for 37 years of the Commune of Fontaine le Port, and president of several philanthropic, and other societies for the advancement of agriculture, &c., in France. He m. 1819, Marguerite, 3rd dau. of Richard Power, Esq. M.P. of Clashmore, who with his two sons, Richard and Robert Power, successively represented the county of Waterford in Parliament for 40 years, which family is at present represented by the Earl of Huntingdon (see that title); she d. in 1838; Vicomte de Valmer m. 2ndly, in 1847, Frances Wyndham, sister of George, 4th Earl of Egremont (see BURKE'S Royal Descents), and by her (who d. in 1870) had no issue. THE MOST HONOURABLE ORDER OF THE BATH.

Instituted in 1399. Revived in 1725. Enlarged in 1815 and 1847.

On the 2nd of Jan. 1815, it was declared that, "for the purpose of commemorating the auspicious termination of the long and arduous contest in which this empire has been engaged," the order should be composed of three classes, and on the 14th April, 1847, it was further extended by the addition of civil knights commanders and companions, on which occasion new Statutes were promulgated for the government of the Order, and the number of members declared as follows, viz.,

1st Class—to consist of knights grand cross; number not to exceed, for the military service, fifty, exclusive of the Sovereign and princes of the blood royal, and such distinguished foreigners as may be nominated honorary knights grand cross; and twenty-five for the civil service.

2nd Class—Knights commanders, numbers not to exceed for the military service, one hundred and twenty-three, and for the civil service eighty, exclusive of foreign officers, who may be admitted as honorary knights commanders. In the event of actions of signal distinction, or of future wars, the numbers may be increased of this as well as of the third class. The members of the second class are entitled to the distinctive appellation of knighthood, after having been invested with the Insignia; to take precedence of Knights Bachelors; to wear the badge, &c., pendant by a red ribbon round the neck, the star embroidered on the left side.

3rd Class—Companions of the Order, to consist, for military service, of six hundred and ninety and for the civil service of two hundred and fifty; they are to take precedence of esquires, but are not entitled to the appellation, style, &c., of knights bachelors. To wear the badge assigned to the third class, pendent by a narrow red ribbon from the the left breast. No officer can be nominated to the military division of the third class of the Order, unless his services have been marked by special mention of his name as having distinguished himself in action against the enemy. This class has never been conferred upon any officer below the rank of major in the army and commander in the navy.

The Badge for the Military Classes of the Order is a gold Maltese cross, of eight points, enamelled, argent; in the four angles, a lion passant-guardant, or; in the centre, the rose, thistle, and shamrock, issuant from a sceptre between three imperial crowns, or, within a circle, gules; thereon the motto of the Order, surrounded by two branches of laurel, proper, issuing from an escrol, azure, inscribed Ich Dien (I serve), in letters of gold. It is worn by the grand crosses pendent from a red ribbon across the right shoulder, by the knights commanders from the neck, and by the companions from the button-hole.

The Collar is of gold (weight, thirty ounces Troy weight), and is composed of nine imperial crowns, and eight roses, thistle, and shamrock, issuing from a sceptre, enamelled in their proper colours, tied or linked together with seventeen gold knots, enamelled white, having the badge of the Order pendent therefrom.

The Star of the Military Grand Crosses is formed of rays or flames of silver, thereon a gold Maltese cross, and in the centre, within the motto, branches of laurel, issuant as in the badge.

The Civil Knights Grand Crosses retain the old badge and star of the Order. The Star is of silver, formed with eight points or rays, charged with three imperial crowns, proper, upon a glory of silver rays, surrounded with a red circle, upon which is the motto of the Order. Their badge is of gold, composed of a rose, thistle, and shamrock, issuing from a sceptre between three imperial crowns, encircled by the motto. The civil knights commanders wear the same badge, of a smaller size, round the neck by a red ribbon, and the civil companions the same, but of a still smaller size, from the button-hole, pendent from a red ribbon.

The Star of the Knights Commanders is in the form of a cross-patée of silver, having the same centre as the grand crosses, but without a gold Maltese cross thereon. The star of the civil knights commanders is of the same form and size, only omitting the laurel wreath round the circle containing the motto and the escrol with the words, "Ich dien" underneath.

THE MOST EXALTED ORDER OF THE STAR OF INDIA

Instituted by Her Majesty Queen Victoria, February 23rd, 1861, and enlarged, March 28th, 1866 and 1876.

The Order consists of the Sovereign, a Grand Master, and 205 Ordinary Companions or Members, together with such Extra and Honorary Members as Her Majesty, her heirs and successors, shall from time to time appoint. The 205 Ordinary Members are divided into three Classes:—the first Class are styled Knights Grand Commanders, and to consist of thirty Members; the second Class to consist of seventy-two Members, to be styled Knights Commanders; the third Class to consist of one hundred and forty-four Members, to be styled Companions. Her Majesty's Viceroy and Governor-General of India for the time being is Grand Master.

THE statutes enable the Sovereign to confer the dignity of Knight Grand Commander of the Order upon Princes and Chiefs of India as shall have entitled themselves to her Majesty's favour, and upon such of her Majesty's British subjects as have, by important and loyal services rendered by them to the Indian Empire, merited the Royal favour; and the second and third Classes upon persons who, by their conduct or services in the Indian Empire, have merited the Royal favour.

THE STAR.—Rays of gold issuing from a centre, having thereon a star in diamonds, resting upon a light blue enamelled circular riband, tied at the ends, inscribed with the motto of the Order, viz.:—"HEAVEN'S LIGHT OUR GUIDE," also in diamonds.

THE COLLAR.—Composed of the lotus of India, of palm branches, tied together, in saltier, and of the united Red and White Rose. In the centre is an imperial crown; all richly enamelled on gold, in their proper colours.

THE BADGE.—An onyx cameo of Her Majesty's effigy, set in a perforated and ornamented oval, containing the motto of the Order, "HEAVEN'S LIGHT OUR GUIDE," surmounted by a star all in diamonds. The Ribbon of the Order is sky-blue, having a narrow white stripe towards either edge, and is worn from the right shoulder to the left side.

THE MANTLE.—Light blue satin, lined with white, and fastened with a cordon of white silk, with blue and silver tassels, on the left side a representation of the star of the Order.

The Knights Commanders wear around their necks a riband of the same colours and pattern as that of the First Class, but two inches in width, hanging therefrom the Badge of a smaller size than that appointed for the Knights Grand Commanders except the star, which surmounts it, is of silver; on their left breast a star composed of rays of silver issuing from a gold centre, having thereon a silver star resting upon a blue enamelled circular riband, tied at the ends, inscribed with the motto of the Order.

The Companions wear from the left breast a Badge of the same form as appointed for the Knights Commanders, but of a smaller size pendent to the like riband of the breadth of one inch and a half.

OFFICERS OF THE ORDER.

Secretary—Alfred Comyns Lyall, Esq., C.B. Registrar—Sir Albert W. Woods, Garter King of Arms.

THE MOST DISTINGUISHED ORDER OF ST. MICHAEL AND ST. GEORGE.

Instituted 27th April, 1818, by Letters Patent, under the Great Seal of Great Britain, and enlarged and extended 4th Dec. 1868, and 30th May, 1877, for the natural born subjects of the Crown of the United Kingdom as may have held or shall hold high and confidential offices within Her Majesty's colonial possessions, and in reward for services to the Crown in relation to the foreign affairs of the Empire, &c.

The Order is to consist of not more than fifty Knights Grand Cross, exclusive of Extra and Honorary Members, one hundred and fifty Knights Commanders, and two hundred and sixty Companions.

THE members of the Order enjoy rank and precedency immediately after the corresponding classes of the Order of the Star of India; that is to say, the Knights Grand Cross after Knights Grand Commanders of the Star of India; the Knights Commanders after the Knights Commanders of the Star of India; and the Companions after the Companions of the Star of India. The Grand Master is the First and Principal Knight Grand Cross. The Knights Grand Cross are entitled to bear supporters, and to encircle their arms with the collar, ribbon, and motto of the Order. The Knights Commanders also encircle their arms with the ribbon and motto; and the Companions suspend the badge of the Order to their arms.

HABIT AND INSIGNIA.

THE STAR of a Knight Grand Cross is composed of seven rays of silver, having a small ray of gold between each of them, and over all the cross of St. George, gules. In the centre is a representation of the Archangel St. Michael encountering Satan, within a blue circle, inscribed with the motto, AUSPICIUM MELIORIS ÆVI.

THE COLLAR is formed alternately of lions of England, of Maltese crosses, and of the ciphers S M and S G, having in the centre the imperial crown, over two winged lions, passant-guardant, each holding a book, and seven arrows. At the opposite end of the collar are two similar lions. The whole is of gold except the crosses, which are of white enamel, and it is linked together by small gold chains.

THE BADGE is a gold cross of fourteen points of white enamel, edged with gold, having in the centre, on one side, the Archangel St. Michael, encountering Satan, and on the other, St. George on horseback, encountering a dragon, within a blue circle, on which the motto of the Order is inscribed. The Cross is surmounted by the imperial crown, and is worn by the Knights Grand Cross to the Collar, or to a wide Saxon-blue ribbon, with a scarlet stripe from the right shoulder to the left side.

THE MANTLE is of Saxon-blue satin, lined with scarlet silk, tied with cordons of blue and scarlet silk and gold, and has on the left side the star of a Knight Grand Cross.

THE CHAPEAU is of blue satin, lined with scarlet, and surmounted with white and black ostrich feathers.

THE KNIGHTS COMMANDERS wear the badge suspended to a narrower ribbon from the neck, and have on their left side a star composed of four rays, with a small cross of eight points in saltier, of silver, surmounted by the cross of St. George, gules, and having the same centre as the Star of the Grand Crosses.

BRITISH ORDERS OF KNIGHTHOOD.

THE COMPANIONS wear the small cross of the Order from a still narrower ribbon at the button-hole of their coats.

The Victoria Cross.

THIS Decoration was instituted by a Warrant under the Royal Sign Manual, bearing date January 29 1856, for the purpose of rewarding individual acts of bravery, performed by Officers of the lower grades in the Naval and Military Services, or by Warrant and Petty Officers, Seamen, and Marines in the Navy, and Non-Commissioned Officers and Soldiers in the Army. Any additional Act of Bravery is recorded by a Bar being attached to the Ribbon by which the Cross is suspended. A Pension of £10 per annum is bestowed upon the non-commissioned officers and men who receive the Cross; and a further Pension of £5 a year is given with each Bar.

By another Warrant, bearing date December 13, 1858, it was declared, that Non-Military persons, who, as Volunteers, had borne arms against the Mutineers in India should be considered eligible to receive the decoration of the Victoria Cross, subject to the rules and ordinances already made for the government thereof.

The distinction consists of a Maltese Cross of Bronze, with the Royal Crest in the centre, and underneath which an escroll bearing the inscription "FOR VALOUR." On the reverse side of the Bar the Rank and Name of the Recipient is engraved, and on the Cross the name and date of the Action or Campaign in which the honour was won. The Cross is worn suspended from the left breast by a blue ribbon for the Navy, and by a red ribbon for the Army.

ICH DIEN. I serve. PRINCE OF WALES. The King of Bohemia, who fell at the battle of Crécy, had three ostrich feathers for crest, and this ICH DIEN for motto. The ensign and legend were adopted by the Black Prince,—the words, probably, on account of their apt allusion to the good service he did the day of that victory to his royal father and his country; and they have been continued by his successors, as a lasting memorial of his triumph. There is, however, a tradition at Windsor Castle that the motto is Welch, "Eich Deen," Here's the man, words used by Edward I., on presenting his new-born son to the Welshmen.

In Canopo ut ad Canopum. Louis, Bt. The sense of this legend is the most obscure in the whole list of mottoes. The following explanation has been suggested:—Canopus is the name of a city in Egypt (Gens fortunata Canopi, Virg. Georg. iv. v. 237), now Aboukir, a place celebrated during the Crusades. The word also signifies a fixed star of the first magnitude, in the constellation of Argus, and southern hemisphere (Sidus ingens et clarum, Plin. Hist. Nat. vi. 22). The motto may therefore have been assumed by a crusader, importing that to have fought for the cross in Egypt (in Canopo), was the road to heaven (ad Canopum, equivalent to ad astra)." Admiral Louis, however, having died on board the ship Canopus, another meaning, though perhaps somewhat similar, is intended.

Lamb dearg aboo. The red hand to victory. Magawly, Countamh dearg Eirin. The red hand of Ireland. O'Neill, V. O'Neill, B. There is a tradition that in an ancient expedition of some adventurers to Ireland, their leader declared that whoever first touched the shore should possess the territory which he reached, and that O'Neil, from whom descended the princes of Ulster, bent upon obtaining the reward, and seeing another boat likely to land, cut his left hand off and threw it on the coast. The red hand was adopted by JAMES I., as the badge on instituting the order of Baronet. The design of the institution being the colonization of the province of Ulster, in Ireland, the arms of the province were deemed the most appropriate insignia.
